EDUCATING THE PEOPLE

French Precautions In Case Of War.

Paris, July 31.

As though pressed for time, the French authorities are hurrying forward the measures for the defence of the civil population in case of war. The Paris police administration has announced that the general organisation to deal with emergencies is now ready. For instance, it has arranged for the sale of efficient and reliable gasmasks and has opened testing stations where the owners can assure themselves by trial that their masks are gasproof. Further, the police have taken preliminary measures for the use not only in time of war but at any moment of emergency whereby all electric lighting works will be put underground. This plant contains a central switchboard from which all lighting in Paris can be controlled. In case of air raids, Paris can be put into darkness instantaneously merely by shifting the lever. All other operations such as the sewerage, installation of sirens and the masking of public lamps in case of an air attack will be begun next week. Handbills will be distributed telling the public what it has to do in case of an attack.

To carry out these plans, a credit of 20 million francs had been voted.

ENGLAND'S NEW FRONTIER

Not At Dover But On The Rhine

Paris, July 31.

The French Press rejoices over Mr. Stanley Baldwin's speech in the House of Commons on Monday, nearly all papers featuring in heavy type Mr. Baldwin's dictum that "England's frontier is no longer at Dover but on the Rhine," by which the acting Premier evidently meant to illustrate the changed situation brought about by the air fleet's ability to strike at long range, but which the French Press interprets as confirming the two countries' unanimity of purpose.

Some papers point out the importance of the Netherlands in England's air defence scheme, one commentator even going to the length of asserting that Holland must be regarded as "England's indispensable highway."

New Captain For The Berwick

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, July 17.

The cruiser Berwick, Captain C. G. Sedgwick, is ordered to leave Singapore to-day for home to recommission. She should arrive at Colombo on the 23rd, Aden on August 3, Suez on August 9, Malta on August 14, and Plymouth on August 24. The ship will also refit during the recommissioning period. Captain Sedgwick, who has commanded her for two years, is to be succeeded by Captain E. C. O. Thomson, D.S.O., at present attending the tactical course at Portsmouth and late in command of the boys' training establishment, St. Vincent at Gosport.

Captain Thomson has had recent experience on the China Station as Captain (1) of the 3rd Flotilla when it was ordered to Shanghai at the time of the threat to that city in 1927; and also as Captain in-Charge at Singapore in 1928-29. He was in command of destroyers throughout the War, and was made D.S.O. for his gallantry in command of the Petard in the battle of Jutland. He was promoted to his present rank in December, 1924.

During the quarter ended March 31st last, 1,235 successful signalling exercises were carried out between H.M. ships and British merchant vessels.

Cmdr. R. G. Bowes-Lyon, M.V.O., has received an expression of the Board of Admiralty's appreciation for the useful information he has supplied and care he has taken in compiling three Remark Books whilst serving as navigating officer of H.M.S. Hawkins in 1933.

A short course for officers will be held at the Physical and Recreational Training School, commencing on Monday, July 30, and ending on Friday, August 24.

The Admiralty notified the following appointments on Saturday:

Lt.-Cmdr. (E).—E. F. H. Lawson, to Iron Duke, on relief.

Lts.—F. B. Currie to L. 54, August 1; E. F. Pizey, to Porpoise, August 2; and B. W. Taylor, to Dolphin, August 3.

DELICATE FABRICS

Delicate evening frocks which are made of chiffon and georgette sometimes become spotted with grease, and it is a problem to know how to treat them without damaging the fragile material. The usual methods for removing grease spots must not be employed, and it will be found that ordinary talcum powder will repair the damage successfully. Sprinkle the grease spots liberally with the talcum powder, rubbing it in gently. Leave it on for twenty-four hours, and then brush. After this treatment the grease spots will not be noticeable.

Solving the Problem...

WHITE CANE SEATS

After a time the cane seats of bed-room chairs are inclined to sag, and it is a good plan to treat them during cleaning, as they can be considerably strengthened. Warm salt water is good for the purpose if the cane has only sagged slightly, but lemon juice and salt are stronger in action. Sponge the seat well with warm soapy water and then apply the lemon juice and salt liberally. Turn the chair upside down and leave it in the sun to dry. All cane chairs are most successfully cleaned with salt and water, using a small brush to penetrate the corners. Always dry cane articles out of doors as, if dried near a fire, they will crack afterwards.

When Cream Is Scarce

Some one suggests strawberries! If there is not cream enough to go round, try this tip for making three tablespoonfuls of cream for the whole multitude of unexpected guests. If you like a generous helping of cream with your strawberries try the following: Beat up the white of one egg to a stiff froth, then stir into it three tablespoonfuls of cream. It will make about a quarter of a pint, and no one will know there has been anything added.

Economy Tea Cake

Tea, of course, provides the opportunity for cakes, scones, and dainties of all sorts. Easy to make, quick to bake, delicious to eat, and hard to beat, Wiltshire economy cake is made as follows:—

Take 3 ozs. of margarine and 4 ozs. of castor sugar and beat until it resembles clotted cream. Add two well-beaten eggs and one tablespoonful of golden syrup, and gradually add 10 ozs. of sifted self-raising flour and one teaspoonful of mixed spice. Mix well together.

Lastly, add 3 ozs. of sultanas and 2 ozs. of mixed peel (chopped small). Blend well together—it should be nice thick batter; if too thick, add a little milk.

Pour into two well-greased sandwich tins and bake, about thirty minutes in a moderate oven.

Cool and dredge with castor sugar. These cakes will keep for several weeks if stored in an airtight tin, and your family do not know their hiding place.

Strawberry Shortcake

Strawberry short cake:—1 lb. of flour, 2 ozs. of butter, one gill of milk, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, two teaspoonfuls of castor sugar, 1 lb. of fresh strawberries, salt, whipped cream.

Prepare and mash strawberries. Sweeten them with sugar and leave them for an hour or so.

Rub the butter into the flour, which has been sieved with the sugar and baking powder, and a pinch of salt, then mix it with as much milk as will make it a soft but not sticky dough.

Mould it lightly on a floured board, roll it out to a quarter of an inch thick, prick it all over with a fork and cut into two-and-a-half inch rounds. Soften a little fresh butter and spread a little of it on half of the rounds, put the other rounds on top so that each is now a kind of sandwich, and bake in a hot oven till nicely brown.

Split each sandwich in half again and let them get cold. Now butter each bottom one again, spread with the strawberry mash, put on the other half and pile up with more fruit, and finally with whipped cream.

GELATIN SALADS

Superior Salad

1 package lemon gelatin.
1 cup boiling water.
1 cup cold water or canned pear juice.

1 teaspoon salt.
3 to 4 halves canned pears cut in cubes.
1 pintanto cut in small pieces.

1 cream cheese.
Dissolve gelatin in boiling water; add pears and pintanto. Soften cheese with a little milk or cream, season with salt and paprika. Fold into gelatin mixture.

Small pieces of cheese about 1 teaspoon each. Turn into moulds and chill until firm. Serve on crisp lettuce with mayonnaise or French dressing. Pineapple used instead of pears also makes a delicious salad.

Ginger Fruit Salad

1 package lemon gelatin.
1 cup boiling water.
1-1/3 cup ginger ale.
1/3 cup diced apples.

1/3 cup chopped celery.
3 slices canned pineapple cut in small pieces.
1/3 cup chopped nut meats.
1 cup chopped crystallized ginger.

Add boiling water to lemon gelatin. Stir until entirely dissolved. Add ginger ale; chill until mixture begins to thicken. Then add other ingredients. Turn into a large or individual moulds; chill until firm. Serve on crisp lettuce leaves with mayonnaise.

Macedoine of Vegetable Salad

1 package lemon gelatin.
1 1/2 cups clear meat stock or bouillon.
1 cup vinegar or lemon juice.
1 teaspoon salt.

1 teaspoon paprika.
1 teaspoon pepper.
1 teaspoon onion juice.
2 cups cooked vegetables, well drained—peas, carrots and string beans cut in strips, and potatoes diced.

Dissolved gelatin in boiling meat stock or bouillon. Add vinegar and seasonings. Cool. When it begins to thicken, add prepared vegetables and turn into small moulds. Chill. Remove from moulds and serve on lettuce with mayonnaise.

Pineapple Jelly and Fruit Salad

1 package lemon gelatin.
1 cup boiling water.
1 cup canned pineapple juice.

Dissolve lemon gelatin in boiling water. Add pineapple juice. Turn into shallow square pan which has been rinsed in cold water; chill until firm. Cut into cubes and toss lightly together.

Mango Fritters

Ingredients:—4 ripe mangoes, 1 lb. flour, 1 tea-cup tepid water, 2 whites of eggs, 1 tablespoon melted butter, pinch salt, castor sugar.

Sieve the flour and salt into a basin, and make a well in the centre. Add the tepid water by degrees, and beat with the back of a wooden spoon against the side of the basin until a perfectly smooth thick cream is formed. Add the melted butter (or salad oil) and beat again for a few minutes. Set aside for an hour. Whisk the whites of eggs to a stiff froth, and stir them in just before the batter is to be used. The batter should be very thick, and of such a consistency that it completely hides the colour of the spoon, while in no way altering its shape. Sugar should not be added as it is apt to make the batter heavy. Cut the peeled mangoes into neat pieces. Dip one piece in the batter, coat it well, then lift it out with a skimmer, and gently drop it into a sauce-pan of boiling fat. Do not put too many pieces into the fat at one time, as they would cool the fat, also there must be plenty of room left to allow the fritters to swell. When a golden brown colour, lift the fritters out with a draining spoon, and drain well on paper. Toss in castor sugar and serve on a warm folded serviette on a hot dish.

Anchovy Eggs

The anchovy eggs for supper are made by rolling the eggs hard, cutting them in halves, and removing the yolks carefully. Pound these with a little butter, cayenne, and anchovy essence to taste. Pile up the mixture in the whites and serve the eggs on a dish with watercress, mustard and sliced tomatoes.

Aspic and No Bother

Or if your kitchen is not convenient from your garden table choose a cold menu. Salad meats, poultry or fish are delicious served in aspic.

Say "aspic" suddenly to be average cook or housewife and she shakes like the jelly you want her to make.

But this way is easy: One tin of consommé, 1 tin of water, 1 oz. gelatine, one teaspoon lemon juice.

Soak the gelatine in a little of the water. Heat the remainder of the water with the consommé, dissolve the gelatine in it, add the lemon juice, set to cool, and there you are!

Some people add a dash of sherry, some omit the lemon (I like the refreshing tang, though).

Prepare the food which you wish to serve with salad. Serve with cream mayonnaise on lettuce.

PETITS POIS FRANCAISE

The best results are obtained if the peas are all of about the same size. The pan should be of such a size that it will be two thirds full when all the ingredients are in it. The following recipe would give enough for six people.

Put a pint and a half of tinbed peas into a thick enamel sauce-pan with the heart of a lettuce cut in half, a dozen button onions cleaned but not peeled, two and a half ounces of butter and three lumps of sugar broken in small pieces. Mix these well together, and leave in a cool place with the lid on for an hour.

When you are ready to cook the peas, add half a dozen tablespoonfuls of cold water and a bouquet of four sprigs of parsley tied together with, if possible, a sprig of summer (sweet) savory. Cover the pan with a soup-plate, with half a cupful of cold water in it—so that it fits well down on to the pan.

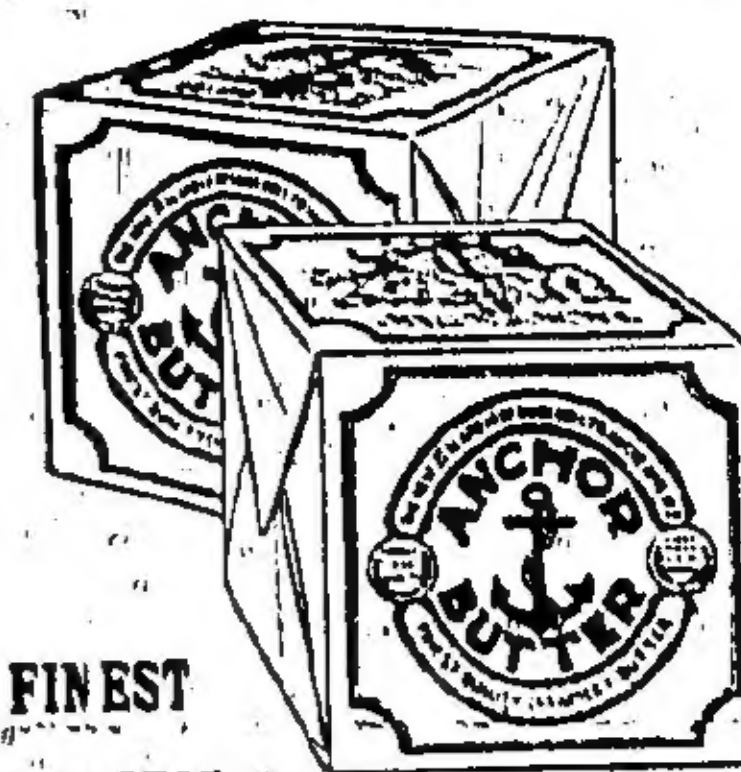

Put the pan on an even heat, and when its contents come to the boil, move it to the side of the fire (or on to a low flame on an asbestos mat). The peas must poach, not simmer. If they cook too fast or too long they will mash. Allow eight to ten minutes for them to come to the boil, and twenty-five minutes afterwards.

During their cooking, renew the water in the soup-plate two or three times (when it begins to get appreciably hot), and shake the pan now and again, but do not stir the peas with a spoon. At the end of this time, there should be only about a table-spoonful of liquid left.

Two or three minutes before serving, take out the bouquet, and put the onions and lettuce on a plate to keep warm. Toss the peas over a flame so that the remaining liquid reduces, and then add half an ounce of butter in small pieces, shaking it carefully into the peas.

Now put them into a dish, and arrange the lettuce and onions round them, so that you can distribute these "extras" among those who like them.

THREE SUNDAY DISHES

BREAKFAST

Haddock Croquettes

Flake some cooked smoked haddock. Melt a walnut of butter in a saucepan, add a dessert-spoonful of flour and a gill of milk, and stir till it is a smooth white sauce. Then put in the haddock, well seasoned with pepper, make thoroughly hot, and serve on rounds of fried bread with a garnish of parsley.

DINNER

Norwegian Cream

Half fill a glass dish with raspberry jelly. When it is nearly set, mix the beaten yolks of four eggs with an ounce of castor sugar and a little vanilla flavouring, stir in a quarter of an ounce of dissolved gelatine, and, lastly, mix lightly in the stiffly whipped whites of the eggs.

Spread this mixture on the jelly, cover with a thin layer of raspberry jam, and put little dollops of whipped cream on top.

SUPPER

Devilled Cheese Toast

Work mustard and cayenne pepper to taste into the required amount of cream cheese.

Butter some slices of toast, spread the cheese mixture on them, make thoroughly hot in a quick oven, and serve at once.

A FEW COLD DISHES

To Be Had From Your Gibsons Refrigerator

The following are some of the delightful dishes obtainable from your Gibson's refrigerator.

Frozen Staff Pear Salad

Arrange halves of Bartlett pears in single freezing tray. Pour in as much chilled ginger ale as fruit will absorb. Fill pear hollows with cream or cottage cheese moistened with mayonnaise. Fill tray three fourths full with ginger ale. Garnish pears with mint leaves, parsley or sliced cherries (red or green). Freeze. Serve 1 pear half frozen in its saute of beverage on lettuce. (Cut between pears with knife, and remove to salad plate). Serve at once to avoid melting.

Winsted Salad

Freeze 1 can of undiluted tomato soup, and 1 can crushed pineapple, combined. Serve cut in squares, on lettuce, with of cream cheese rolled in crushed nuts, or plain (or top with mayonnaise).

Nanty—Glo Frozen Salad

To 1 quart strained tomato pulp, add 3 teaspoons onion juice (optional 3 tablespoons sugar, salt and pepper; 1 cup chopped celery and cucumber combined) 1 cup mayonnaise and 1 chopped green pepper. Freeze. Serves 12.

Green Gold Salad

Combine and dissolve 1 pkg. Lime Gelatine and 1 pkg. Lemon Gelatine. Chill in deep GIBSON tray. Fold in 3 grated carrots (salted) and 1 can crushed pineapple. Chill in tray for 1 hour. Serve thick slice on lettuce, with mayonnaise. Serves 8.

Frozen Nougat Cream Salad

3-diced-marshmallows
6-ounces maraschino cherries, minced

1/3 cup chopped pecans
1/3 cup confectioner's sugar
1/3 cup confectioner's sugar
3 tablespoons cherry syrup
1 teaspoon gelatine
1 tablespoon water
1 cup cream, whipped
1 teaspoon salt

Soak gelatine in cold water, dissolve over hot water. Add to cherry syrup, then stir into mayonnaise. Fold in the whipped cream (after adding con. sugar and salt). Add remaining ingredients. Freeze about 3 hours. Serve in squares in lettuce cups. Yield: 1 pint.

Brill Rolls For Lunch

Try brill rolls for lunch some day during the warm weather. They make a delightful meal served on lettuce leaves.

You will require 1 lb. filleted brill. Skin the fillets; wash and dry them.

Mix well together one dessert-spoonful chopped parsley, one teaspoonful of breadcrumbs, two tablespoonfuls of grated cheese, a little grated lemon rind, pepper and salt, and one egg.

Spread the mixture on the skinned side of the fillets, roll each into a sausage (roll), shape, and tie loosely with fine twine.

Bake in a buttered pie-dish for twenty minutes; then remove twine, and coat each roll with cheese sauce. Serve on lettuce leaves with thin slices of tomato nicely arranged round each roll.

Gelatin Desserts

Jellied Fudge Apples

1 cup sugar
1 cup water
6 apples—peeled and cored
1 package lemon gelatin
1 cup cold water
1 cup brown sugar
1 tablespoon butter
1 cup milk

Boil together sugar and water for about 10 minutes. Add apples and cook until tender but not broken. When done, drain and arrange in one large or six small moulds. Measure boiling syrup, add boiling water to make on cup.

Pour over lemon gelatin and stir until dissolved. Add one cup cold water. Cool. Prepare fudge by boiling together brown sugar, butter and milk to 235° F. or until a soft ball forms when tested in cold water. Fill centers of apples with fudge mixture. When it has cooled, pour gelatin mixture over apples to fill mould. Chill until firm. Serve with whipped cream.

1 cup chopped walnuts or pecans may be added to fudge mixture if desired. Serves 6.

Brown Bread As A Bonne Bouche

Apart from all considerations
of its special nutritive value, brown bread is delicious. What,
for instance, in summer should we do without brown bread-and-butter with our whitebait? And now, in winter, could we properly enjoy our oysters without the same pleasant accompaniment?

Picnic-addicts often show a marked preference for brown bread, saying that it keeps moist-er than white.

Sandwiches

However, this may be, it certainly provides them with several unusual kinds of sandwiches—the plainest being made with chopped pickled walnuts or pickled gherkins, and the more expensive
with a mixture of chopped olives
and cream cheese; chopped
pimientos, mayonnaise, lettuce, and cream cheese; or thin cold
fillets of sole seasoned with salt, pepper, and finely chopped parsley.

On the Continent you sometimes come across a remarkable cheese sandwich made with black bread. But our brown bread might well be used for an insular variety of this monumental affair.

The correct cheese to use is Roquefort, which should be mixed with some butter to give it the right spreading properties.
Spread some of this on a thin slice of rather stale brown bread,
and continue spreading and putting on more slices until you have a pile four or five inches high.

Then press it down well, cut off
the crusts, and divide it into three or four strips. If you can get watercress, that is the best accompaniment.

So much for sandwiches, for we must not forget our stale bread and what we can do with the crumbs. Ordinary brown-bread pudding is rather dull, but I have an idea that Guard's Pudding (the recipe for which I have given so often before) might be improved by using brown instead of white breadcrumbs.

The delicious Swedish sweet, Bonde Pige, the recipe for which I gave quite recently, is a powerful advocate for the special purchase of brown bread.

It is made, you will remember,
by baking, until they are crisp,
some brown breadcrumbs in the oven with a few pieces of butter on top, letting them get cold, and then putting them into a dish
with alternate layers of raspberry jam and whipped cream.

Brown bread cream should not be despised. It is made by mixing
a quarter of a pound of butter
with a couple of ounces of castor sugar and then adding to it, one by one, four yolks of eggs.

You then add two ounces of brown breadcrumbs which have been soaked in a little claret and then sieved, a pinch of cinnamon, half a tablespoonful of chopped glace cherries, a couple of ounces of pounded sweet almonds and, lastly, the well-whipped whites of the eggs. This is cooked in a mould "au bain" marie, and turned out when cold.

Brown Bread Ice
And last you may never have heard of it (as I had not before I started this article), there is such a thing as Brown Bread Cream Ice. Make a pint of ordinary custard for cream ice and partly freeze it. Then add half a gill of cream and three ounces of sieved brown breadcrumbs
which have been baked in a slow oven until crisp. If the ice were flavoured with raspberry, it would be rather like the Bonde Pige.

Some More Cold Dishes

Frozen Thousand Island Salad
Dilute 1 part "1000 Island"
Dressing with 3 parts whipped cream. Freeze solid in cubes;
serve group of cubes on lettuce leaf with small radishes and olives. If frozen without cube grid, serve large square of salad
on lettuce.

Mayonnaise Cubes
Combine 1 cup whipped cream,
1/3 cup mayonnaise and 1/4 cup grenadine syrup (for pink color) or crème-de-menthe syrup (for green colour). Freeze in cubes—but not too solid. Serve with fruit salad.

TRY ONE OF THESE MACARONI SALADS TO VARY THE MENU

A brand new use for macaroni is in salad. One of my Italian friends groans at the idea, but that is because he is too steeped in tradition to be able to support the thought of his favourite paste served anyway except hot and dripping with sauces of one kind or another. But I'm sure you'll really like macaroni salad—so would be induced to try it!

Perhaps the most important step in the making of successful macaroni salads lies in the cooking. Each piece must be firm and smooth, tender but not soft or sticky. The best way to cook macaroni is to drop it into plenty of boiling water—3 quarts of water and 1 tablespoon salt to 2 cups macaroni are good proportions—and bll until tender, about 20 minutes. Drain well and rinse with cold water. Drain thoroughly and chill. Have all the other materials cold.

Macaroni Ham Salad

This salad is particularly good served on a bed of shredded cabbage.

One cup cooked and chilled macaroni, 1 cup chopped cold boiled radish, 1 tablespoon prepared horseradish, 2 pimientos, 1 cup salad dressing (mayonnaise or cooked dressing), shredded cabbage.

Mix horseradish and ham thoroughly and combine lightly with macaroni and pimientos which have been cut in shreds. Moisten with dressing and serve on a bed of shredded crisp cabbage.

Macaroni Egg Salad

This is another substantial salad.

One cup cooked macaroni, 2
hard cooked eggs, 1-2 cup diced celery, salad dressing, shredded leaf lettuce.

Chop eggs coarsely and combine with macaroni celery and olives.
Add salad dressing to make moist and serve on a bed of shredded leaf lettuce. Garnish with halves of stuffed olives. It's better to use the olives stuffed with pimentoes rather than those stuffed with celery or nuts because the red of the pimento makes an attractive touch of colour.

Macaroni Fruit Salad

On cup cooked macaroni, 1 cup diced pineapple, 2 bananas thinly sliced and marinated in lemon juice, 1 cup whipping cream, 1-4 cup orange juice, 1-4 cup lemon juice, 1-3 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 1-4 teaspoon salt.

It's a good idea to dice the pineapple several hours before you want to make your salad. Sprinkle with sugar and if you want to, drain and use the juice in place of orange juice, to make the dressing. If you do use pineapple juice bring it to the boiling point before you make the dressing.

Mix sugar and cornstarch and stir into boiling pineapple juice.
Cook, stirring occasionally, in double boiler for 20 minutes. Add lemon juice and let cool.

Rose Creams

Roll half a pound of icing sugar till there are no lumps in it. Mix it in a basin with a quarter of a pound of ground almonds, and stir in one teaspoonful of lemon juice. Beat the white of one egg till it stands alone, add it to the mixture, and stir till you have a firm cream. Colour this a nice pink with a few drops of cochineal.

If the cream is too soft to handle easily, add more icing sugar;
if too stiff, a very little lemon juice. Beat it to a firm block on a board, cut it into small cubes with a sharp knife, and place the
the sweets on a sieve to dry for twenty-four hours.

COOKERY NOOK

Consomme a l'Estragon is an excellent soup for summertime.
Blanch a small bunch of tarragon,
chop it coarsely and let half of it simmer in your consomme for about half an hour before it is to be served.

Ten minutes before the soup is wanted whisk up the rest of the tarragon (which you have meanwhile dried and chopped very finely) with the whites of a couple of eggs seasoned with salt and pepper.

Poach dessertspoonful of these flavoured egg-whites, not in the consomme, but in a pan of water, and serve the soup in plates with one of these floating in each.

Stewed Pears

The pears will keep white if immediately they are peeled they are dropped into water to which plenty of sugar and the juice of half a lemon have been added.
Cook gently until soft.

How to Make Junket

A quarter of a teaspoonful of essence of rennet to a quarter of a pint of sweetened milk at blood heat makes the junket. The addition of a little vanilla essence and colouring matter is a great improvement.

Strawberry pile might follow
as sweet.

Mash a few strawberries and lay them at the bottom of a glass dish. Sprinkle with castor sugar, then place thin rounds of bananas, followed by custard. Add another layer of crushed strawberries sugar, and bananas, and cover with whipped cream flavoured with vanilla.

QUICK ACTION with SAFETY is the KEYNOTE of 'ASPRO'

WHEN Headaches — Pain — High Temperature, and numerous conditions of ill-health appear you want RELIEF, and Quick Relief, to get back to normal. This is where the use of 'ASPRO' is so valuable. It acts quickly and safely. Quickly because you get rapid relief—Safely because it is pure and conforms to the standards laid down by the British Pharmacopoeia, the guiding authority of the Medical Profession. Furthermore, 'ASPRO' relieves the numerous complaints listed below, because, after ingestion in the system, it is a powerful germicide, and is anti-pyretic—anti-periodic and anti-fermentative. Always keep 'ASPRO' in the Home ready for emergency. 'ASPRO' DOES NOT HARM THE HEART.

'ASPRO' for Headaches and Neuritis

167 Union Street, Erskineville, N.S.W.
Sirs,
I am an obstetric nurse, and my profession takes me on numerous journeys, which mean long hours in all kinds of weather, and at times I have felt that I could not carry on,
but thanks to the wonderful
'ASPRO' Tablets—which I am never without—I have had instant relief from Headaches and Neuritis.

I have nursed four generations, and have always advised my patients to try 'ASPRO' Tablets for complaints too numerous to mention, and all have been loud in their praise for the wonders which 'ASPRO'
has done for them.

You may use this testimony in any way you wish, for I am very grateful for the relief which I had from
'ASPRO'

Yours truly,
(Sgd.) NURSE ELDER

Nerves were in a Terrible Way — 'ASPRO' a Surprise

1 Garden Street, Middle Brighton, S.S.
15/12/32

Dear Sirs,
Last week I had 18 teeth out,
and not being well my nerves
were in a terrible way; in fact, I had to be taken home from the dentist. I went on for a couple of days in terrible pain with my head and eyes, due to my nerves, so I had to go to a doctor. On my way home I bought a packet of 'ASPRO'. I took three and laid down, and to my surprise I woke up feeling lovely. Now, if I feel a slight headache at all I fly to my 'ASPRO'. I think 'ASPRO' should be in every home. I could mention a few more facts where 'ASPRO' has done good in my home. Once tried, always used.

Yours faithfully,

Stuffed Breast of Veal

For four or five people. Three pounds breast of veal, three ounce suet, one egg, five ounces breadcrumbs, one lemon, two shallots, two ounces cooked ham,
six rashers bacon.

Lay the boned breast of veal flat on a board with the outer skin down. Sprinkle with lemon juice, salt and pepper.

Mix the stuffing. Chop the suet, mix it with the breadcrumbs,
the chopped shallots the minced
ham, a pinch of mixed herbs, salt, pepper, and a little grated nut-
meg. Bind with the beaten egg, and add sufficient milk to make
the mixture a firm paste.

Spread the stuffing thickly over the veal, roll up, and tie firmly with string. Roll in a sheet of greasproof paper, make a kind of parcel, and tie again with string. Put it on a baking tin with plenty of dripping and cook
in a hot oven, allowing twenty minutes over. Baste frequently.

Roll the bacon rashers, fix them
on a skewer and either grill them or put them into the oven with the veal on an entree dish with the grilled bacon round it, and serve with brown sauce.

Have you ever tried sausage shortcake for breakfast? It is a biscuit dough baked in two parts, with sausage meat spread between the layers. If you prefer link sausage, wrap the dough around the sausage and bake.

Sago or Tapioca?

A little lunch-time problem arose recently among some of the delegates to the conference at Bath of the Federation of Grocers' Associations.

One of the delegates asked for sago pudding.

The waiter produced a pudding
but the delegate declared, "That is not sago, it is tapioca."
"Sago, Sir," insisted the waiter.
"Tapioca," interpolated another grocer. "But you are not the only person to can't tell the difference," he added. "Ninety percent of the people of this country
do not know the difference between sago and tapioca and frequently buy tapioca thinking it is sago."

[Sago is prepared from a deposit
in the trunk of the sago palm.
Tapioca is obtained by a heat and moisture treatment from the tu-bers of the cassava plant.]

Souffle of Potatoes

For a small souffle sufficient for four people, use one and a half pounds cooked potatoes, one ounce
butter, tablespoonful cream, tablespoonful milk, two eggs.

Rub the cooked potatoes
through a sieve. Melt the butter
in a pan, mix in the potato puree, add salt, pepper, a little grated nutmeg, and a teaspoonful of chopped parsley. Stir well, then mix in the milk, the cream, and the egg-yolks. Remove from stove.
Beat the egg-whites to a stiff froth, and fold this into the mixture. Put in a greased souffle dish, and bake in a moderate oven for half an hour.

Mango Jam

Ingredients.—3 lbs. unripe mangoes, juice of 2 limes, 3½ lbs.
lump sugar.

Peel the mangoes thinly, and cut away as much of the flesh off the stones as possible. Pass the flesh through the mincer, using the coarsest cutter, or chop with a knife. Weigh three pounds of this pulp, and put in a large aluminium or brass pan with the lump sugar and the strained lime juice. Stir constantly over a gentle heat till boiling, then boil quickly from 20 to 30 minutes, or until the jam becomes of the consistency of marmalade. Pour into jars, and cover when cold.

Ginger Marmalade

Make in the same way as above, but substitute half a tea-cup of ginger syrup (which is very often left over at the bottom of a jar of preserved ginger) for the lime juice. Mix to a smooth cream in this, a heaped teaspoonful of ground ginger. If liked, a tea-cup of chopped preserved ginger may be added to the jam.

Mango Fool

Ingredients.—1 tea-cup custard,
1 tea-cup sieved mangoes, few drops lime juice.

Prepare the custard in the usual way, using either one good teaspoon custard powder, or one whole egg to thicken the tea-cup of milk. Stew the mangoes and drain off the syrup. Sieve the mangoes, or mash them finely with a silver fork. Turn the custard into a china bowl, and when cold add the mango pulp, and a few drops of lime juice. Beat well together, and serve in custard cups. Sufficient for three persons.

CAVEMEN OF MALAYA

Dutch Historian To Search For Traces Old Civilisation

Singapore, July 28.

An important expedition, which is likely to open many hitherto closed pages of the pre-history of Malaya, is to start to-day headed by Professor Van Stein Callenfels, the eminent Dutch archeologist and pre-historian.

Professor Callenfels has been making preparations for this expedition, the object of which is to discover traces of the stone age civilisation at the shell heap 10 miles from the mouth of the Sungai Muda which was spotted as 1860 by a Mr. Earl, the Resident Councillor of Penang.

At the time of his discovery, Mr. Earl collected a human skeleton from this shell heap and sent it to London where Professor Huxley identified it as belonging to the Australo-Melane-soid race who, according to pre-historic researches in the neighbouring countries, migrated from French Indo-China to New Guinea, Australia and Melanesia.

Race Of 4,000 B.C.

Mr. Earl, not being an archaeologist, failed to collect any of those stone implements by means of which the date of the inhabitants of that civilisation is fixed.
But if Professor Callenfels succeeds in his expedition, as he expects to do, then he will be able to establish that North Malaya was inhabited by this Australo-Melane-soid race before 4,000 B.C.

It should be mentioned that the present expedition has been made possible by the interest of our Resident Councillor, the Hon. Mr.
A. M. Goodman, who has persuaded the Government to provide the funds for it.

A reporter who called on Professor Callenfels found him studying prints of these shell heaps and photographs of stone age implements found in these parts.

"It was in 1923-24 I first found traces of stone age civilisation in French Indo-China and in Sumatra," said the Professor. "Already in the eighties rough stone implements had been found" by the Curator of the Perak Museum but,
not being a pre-historian he does not seem to have realised their importance.

"They are very primitive and roughly hewn like this specimen," continued the Professor showing an example of the stone implements used at that period. It was roughly hewn in the shape of a small chankal and was a very primitive type.

Rough Implements

"Specimens of this type of stone implements," Dr. Callenfels said,
"were found in French Indo-China, Siam, the Dutch East Indies and also in the Malay Peninsula and they indicate a race who live in these parts about 4,000 B.C. Apparently they came into touch with a race who knew how to polish their implements for we find right through the Malay Peninsula specimens of these rough implements with polished edges."

"Later on these people also used bone implements spatulae and awls, but specimens of these have not yet been found in Malaya but only in French Indo-China and the Dutch East Indies. In 1932 I published a paper on the Aus-tralo-Melanesoid race, which appears to have migrated from North Indo-China to New Guinea, Australia and Melanesia."

"There were three types of this race. One lot lived in the open,
the other, in caves, not yet knowing how to build huts, and the third type who lived on sea beach and lived on a diet of shell fish of which they appear to have been very fond. As you can see, if they live for generations eating these shell fish, the empty shells they throw aside would, in time, form
large shell heaps and I discovered such shell heaps in Java and Sumatra, this picture being on one of them."

A Find of 1863
"When my paper was published,
a Viennese Professor, Baron von Heine Gilden drew attention to a smaller paper that had been published by Professor Huxley in London in 1863. From this it appears that one Mr. Earl, then Resident Councillor of Penang, found a small Chinese skeleton about 10 miles from the Mouth of the Sungai Muda burning lime from cockle shells. Mr. Earl investigated and found they got their shells from an enormous shell
heap in the vicinity of the village and on delving into this shell heap,
he found a human skeleton. Now
Mr. Earl was neither an anthropologist, nor a pre-historian. He was just a civil servant but he had the sense to know that considerable value attached to his find, so he had the skeleton carefully packed and sent to Professor Huxley in London.

"Professor Huxley published a small paper describing the skeleton
as belonging to the Australo-Melanesoid race but could give no explanation. Mr. Earl, collected the human bones but he did not collect any implements and it is not known to which period of the stone-age this shell-fish eating if habits of Province Wellesley belong, and the object of the present expedition is to establish that."

Dating From The Stone Age

"My own view," added Professor Callenfels, "is that we shall find that they belong to the oldest type—those using the rough stone implements—as the shell heap is far inland when the sea extended so far back. Probably the period would be about 4,000 or 5,000 B.C.
we may find a few human bones
but that is not necessary. Hux-ley's paper is a sufficient authority for that subject and I have also written to London anthropologists
for further details on the point."

"What we are out for are these stone implements and I am sure we shall make some very interesting finds."

"The shell heap in question is on Bertam Estate and was acquired,
by the Straits Settlements Government who are financing the present expedition. Professor Callenfels is also hoping to obtain further funds from the Carnegie Trust for this work."

M. Tweedie, the Curator of the Raffles Museum, will accompany Professor Callenfels on this expedition at the start but his place will later be taken by Mr. H. D.
Collings, who has just been appointed Assistant Curator of Raffles Museum. Mr. Collings has specialised in Pre-History at Cambridge and will have a practical training under Professor Callenfels as also some Malay assistants.
So Mr. Collings will be able to conduct prehistoric research in Malaya in future.

"Yes, I am looking forward to
my return to Siam," he told a Free Press reporter who interviewed him yesterday, at Government House where he is spending a few days.

Whole Career in the East

Thirty years ago Sir Josiah was a student interpreter in Siam. "I have spent practically the whole of my career in the East," he said. "And I am eager to learn of all the changes that have taken place in Siam since I was last there."

He had been told of the many changes, but it was no use asking this diplomat for his opinion about such things. "I have to go there and find out about them
first," he added.

Sir Josiah was at the dinner given in honour of the King of Siam shortly before leaving England. That was about the last function he attended before he crossed the Continent to join the
P. and O. Rumpura at Marseilles.

FLYING VISIT TO BATAVIA
A short intermission before he gets back into harness gives him
the opportunity of renewing his acquaintance with Netherlands India where he served a long term of office as British Consul-General at Batavia.

"I am going to pay a flying visit to Batavia, and I hope to spend about six days there before flying back to Singapore. I will be in Bangkok by about August 4," he said.

Sir Josiah served three years as British Minister to Panama and Costa Rica prior to his latest appointment. He liked his stay there. Talking of canals, he said he knew "less about the rumours concerning the possibility of the Kra canal than anybody else."

Some people make chicken breeding pay; others find it a losing venture. But scarcely any one of whom we have ever heard did so well as a certain Canadian boy spoken of by the Canadian "Witness." Someone asks his father whether chickens really paid.
"They pay my son," said
the old man. "I bought him the chickens; I supply the feed; I buy the eggs from him, and he eats them."

NEW BRITISH MINISTER

Arrives at Singapore

Singapore, July 24.

"To Me, returning to the East,
is like coming home again," said Sir Josiah Crosby, who will shortly take up another spell of duty in Siam, a country in which he spent many years when he was a young man.

He assumes duty as British Minister to Siam early next month.

Few of Britain's diplomats have spent more years of their life in the tropics than Sir Josiah Crosby. Yet, at the age of 54, his vigorous health and his genial disposition give the lie to those who seek to show that ill-health and an early grave are the outcome of a prolonged stay near the equator.

"Yes, I am looking forward to
my return to Siam," he told a Free Press reporter who interviewed him yesterday, at Government House where he is spending

SARAZEN'S GOLF TOUR A FAILURE

Going Home To-Day

(Special Air Mail Service).

London, July 19.

The departure for New York of Gent Sarazen, the famous American player, who had entered for the Irish Open Championship, has caused great disappointment in golfing circles here.

Sarazen's European tour is a story of disappointment and disillusionment. His stock suffered a severe slump in the recent British championship, in which he finished in sixteenth place, twenty strokes behind Cotton.

He asked to be released from an engagement to appear in a match
at Carlow last Sunday, but the officials of the club insisted upon the contract being fulfilled. Only 270 spectators turned up, the American's share of the gate money being £40.

Having scratched from the Irish championship, Sarazen returned to England by the night boat on Sunday.

J. Kirkwood, Sarazen's travelling companion, is naturally disappointed at the turn of events. He told me that Sarazen's dream of conquest in the British Open and of the fortune accruing has been rudely shattered.

At The Queen's

British Film present a comedy. The scene is set at Venice. Carlo the tenor is jealous of his wife. Jack and Jim are staying in the same hotel and in the next room. Jack overhears a quarrel between Carlo and his wife. He decides to get off with her and give her a good time. There is a carnival and they all have a good time and plenty of champagne. Too much in fact; and Jim finds himself asleep under Carlo's wife's bed. How Jack extricates him is a story; but he does only to be caught himself.

The comedy is light, and the carnival scenes and music are very lively.

World's Melting Pot

If New York is the acknowledged "melting pot of the world" Hollywood may lay claim to being the most cosmopolitan centre in the motion picture field. A careful survey of the natal cities of merely the outstanding stars in the film city reveals representation of practically every important nation in the world.

Many European cinema centres have been handicapped in competing with Hollywood because of domestic regulations and quotas limiting the number of alien importations. Prospects for international fame in foreign-made productions are very slight, and it is for that reason that European stars encourage offers from American producers which in most cases are eagerly forthcoming. Stars from all over the world flock to Hollywood.

The cosmopolitan nature of Hollywood's artist ranks is exemplified strikingly in the cast of the Columbia musical, "Let's Fall In Love," showing to-day at the King's Theatre. Edmund Lowe, starred in the film, is a native son of California. He was born in San Jose, a small agricultural city several hundred miles north of Hollywood.

Ann Sothorn, the glamorous new screen find who is starred with Lowe, is the only other American-born player among the six principals though her ancestry is Swedish. Her birthplace is located in Valley City North Dakota.

Miriam Jordan, who plays Edmund Lowe's fiancée, was born in London, England, and arrived in Hollywood via New York. Gregory Ratoff, born in Samara, Russia, came to California by way of Germany and Broadway. Greta Meyer left Germany for Broadway, but did not come to Hollywood until after she had toured the entire United States with stock companies. Tala Birell, born in Rumania, went first to Berlin, then Vienna and London, but from there direct to Hollywood, with no professional stop-over on Broadway.

David Burton directed "Let's Fall In Love," which relates the story of an unknown girl who is taken from a circus to become a sensational screen discovery. Herbert Fields wrote the original story and screen play.

Coming To The King's

Two young stars will be seen together in "Stand Up and Cheer!" musical extravaganza coming to the King's Theatre on Sunday.

Madge Evans, one of the few present-day stars who began her picture career when she was scarcely more than a baby, is one, and the other is the four-year-old "And" of the season, Little Shirley Temple.

Miss Evans' debut in motion pictures was made at the age of four. Off the screen for several years attending school, she returned to win an even more prominent place through her acting ability and beauty.

Little Shirley, Fox Film officials believe, will be precipitated into fame very soon. Her work in early sequences of "Stand Up and

Journey's End

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 13. "This Old Trafford ground is a complete surprise! I expected to find a patch of grass surrounded by a lot of dark, satanic mills. But there is neither mills nor patch of 'smoke in sight.' The horizon beyond the low-built stands is as clear as if we were upon the top of a hill. The turf is as green as a billiard table—greener than my billiard table—and the sky is full of white, angry heat; a perfect place and a perfect day for incubating runs."—Mr. R. C. Sherriff on the Test match.

I must arise and go now, to Old Trafford I must go. Where cricket is played on a slag-heap and the sky is darkened with woe; I must leave the Kennington pampas and the Oval so wide and free, cheer! won her a long term contract.

Miss Evans, by the way, admits that she owes at the thought of the Shirley has to remember. During her child-starring days, talkies were not even thought of.

And his me away to Old Trafford to the grassless slag and scree. And I shall collect much soot there, for the soot comes dripping slow.

Where the dark, satanic factories close round in a menacing row. Ah, would I could stay at the Oval, where the nightingale throbs his strain.

From the top of the Phoenix Gas Works or the pubs in Kennington Lane!

For I am the perfect Cockney, of a race renowned of old. And, although I write upon cricket, it seems I was never told That this Northern waste of Old Trafford, which made me feel so blue,

Is renowned for space and light and turf the whole of the cricket world through.

So here I sit, in the sunshine and marvel more and more At the utterly unexpected things that existence holds in store.

At Hendon civilisation stops; but I own, as a candid friend, That even Old Trafford is not so bad when you come to the journey's end.

When we are too old to play golf, it is time to die.—The Prince of Wales.

COMING OUT PARTY

To-day's Attraction At The Alhambra

Capitalizing on the genteel headlines of to-day's society pages, and playing a searching light on the debutante racket, Fox Film's latest release, "Coming Out Party," will offer the lowdown on high life when it makes its appearance on the screen of the Alhambra Theatre to-day.

The film, produced by Jesse L. Lasky, is reported to have been staged on as grand and pretentious a scale as any party that may be tendered by a name out of the social register.

The film is said to reveal numerous secrets of the social circles, such as how ambitious mothers fight for the best "coming out party" nights why a social secretary gets a 10 per cent. rake-off on all debutante orders, where all the men come from for parties, and a host of other enlightening details that the society page never tells.

This is the setting for the story of a debutante who is deeply in love with a struggling young violinist. Through a misunderstanding, the lovers quarrel, and an intimate reconciliation follows. On the night of her party, the young girl learns that her sweetheart is leaving for Europe, to fulfill a concert engagement. She tearfully agrees to marry him upon his return, though she knows it will be too late. The butler, who is extremely fond of the girl, learns of her predicament, and hastens to get her sweetheart off the boat before it sails. They both return

TEN TON CAKE

Preparing For Centenary

Weighing ten tons and containing one hundred newly-minted sovereigns, the world's largest birthday cake will be a feature of the Melbourne Centenary Celebrations. Victorian products will be used in the cake mixture, the principal ingredients being 4 tons of fruit, 2 tons of almonds, 14 tons of butter, 14 tons of flour and 36,000 eggs.

The cake will be cut into 250,000 pieces, each 1 1/2 oz. in weight, which will be sold in sealed boxes at a nominal price and every buyer will have a chance to secure one of the 100 sovereigns. A special building 50 feet high and 300 feet in circumference, reproduction of the cake, is being built to house the mammoth confection. Arrayed around the building will be 59 giant candles while the 100th candle, surmounting the whole display, will be lit at the opening ceremony. A dance takes on the first floor will be the scene of the 2500 Centenary dancing competition.

In time to forestall the girl's forced announcement of marriage to a wealthy man-about-town.

Frances Dee and Gene Raymond have the romantic leads, and head a cast that includes such stellar names as Allison Skipworth, Nigel Bruce, Harry Green, Gilbert Emery, Marjorie Gateson, Clifford Jones, Jesse Ralph and Germaine de Neel.

John Blystone directed from the play by Gladys Unger and Jesse L. Lasky Jr.

ECHOES OF 1861

45-Governor Of Gaol Criticized

A case connected with recent riots requires publicity. A Chinese stabbed and killed one of his countrymen—in the attempt to capture him, he stabbed three men, one of whom he wounded mortally. The Coroner of course sat one day last week. The case was adjourned until the following day, when a verdict of wilful murder was returned against the prisoner. Upon the usual question being put to him as to whether he wished to make any statement or not, he replied that he had been so severely beaten, that he was to sick to speak. It turned out that he had managed to escape over the goal wall the previous night, had been recaptured by the police, and was secretly flogged by the Governor of the Gaol. That functionary must have great reliance upon his patrons ere he dares venture thus to violate public decency. If flogging had to be resorted to, surely the person whose duty it was to see that a murderer was not let loose on society should have been the sufferer. The Roman or Japanese plan of chaining a prisoner to his guards is better than this. In fact there is something so repulsive in the occurrence, that we cannot realise it sufficiently to express our sentiments regarding it. It is absurd to select for the Governor of a Gaol, a man whose ideas of discipline were inculcated in one of H.M.'s regiments of the line. This is the second time Mr. Scott, has figured before the Coroner for cruelty, and upon the previous occasion he was so abundantly supported, that he actually punished and dismissed the turnkeys who gave evidence against him. The public belief is that the Colonial Chaplain was Mr. Scott's advocate on the previous occasion. Certainly a minister of Christ should be a minister of mercy—but it is a strange idea of mercy to mediate for the immunity of a man charged with cruelty to his fellow creatures. If the Colonial Chaplain is not aware of it, we can tell him, that not only in our mind, but in the minds of many, his gratuitous interference in this and in other matters, have materially detracted from that respect in which the public would otherwise hold the incumbent of his priestly office.

Not that we think disparagingly of Mr. Scott, but like a fish out of water he is out of place. A smart unfinching martinet, of a Drill Sergeant, is not the man to vest with such supreme and discretionary authority as is involved in the Government should, Hong Kong.

The next case we have to make some remarks upon is, regarding the lives lost by the falling of the hoise. The Coroner sat on this also. The Jury expressed a wish to inspect the premises, which desire being gratified, they ventured upon some doubts as to whether any, or sufficient, lime had been used in the construction of the tenement. They thought not; in fact they could not see any. The Coroner considered that the opinion of an expert was requisite and summoned the Surveyor General, who considered the mortar unobjectionable. Consequently their verdict was accidental death.

Where our Surveyor General picked up his notions about mortar from we cannot imagine. It must have been in some sunny clime "where the leaves never fade, where the skies never weep." We declare that all we see used is simple sand from the hill with about as much lime in it in proportion as there is pepper in pea soup. We do not think the adhesive power of any we see used, is sufficient to hold two bricks together, the upper one being suspended. By the way, talking of bricks—the other day we accidentally discovered fine marl of a light yellow colour, which had been dug out of a well on the Cowloon session. It seemed to us well adapted for constructing coffer dams. The Government should see to it, as it may yield a revenue, if it should be found to exist in quantity.

A TRAGIC WEEK TWENTY YEARS AGO

At Paris.—German patrols enter French territory. Viviani protests to the German ambassador. At 2.30 p.m. the entrenchment to ten kilometres is relaxed. News arrives in Paris that the German troops have penetrated Luxembourg. The French socialists are advised by Cambon, the French ambassador in London, to send a telegram to Ramsay MacDonald, in order to ask for the help of the British Labour Party in the fight against Germany.

At St. Petersburg.—The Tsar issues a manifesto to his people. The Austrian declaration of war on Russia is handed in. At London and Brussels.—At seven in the evening the German minister hands in to the Belgian foreign minister, the ultimatum. Germany stated that she was sure that the French army intended passing through Belgium, and she wished to forestall the enemy's attack. Germany did not wish to adopt a hostile attitude to Belgium, providing the latter maintained a "benevolent neutrality." In such a case Germany undertook to respect Belgium's territorial integrity, and to repair the damage done to the country by her troops, after the war. If Belgium did not permit free transit of German troops, then she would be considered as an enemy. King Albert calls a cabinet meeting. He declares that Belgium would be sacrificing her honour, and betraying Europe by accepting such terms. He asks the King of England to intervene diplomatically.

By noon Grey had received news of the ultimatum and of its refusal. Parliament was sitting that afternoon, and Grey exposed all the events of the previous days. He also made known the naval and military naval accord, between France and England, adding that it was an "entente," and not an alliance. He revealed the German ultimatum to Belgium. Parliament supported the government. Germany notified England that if she remained neutral then the north coast of France would be respected. Grey refused to accept this, and declared that if the German fleet entered the North Sea, then England would support France. Grey sent a note to Germany asking for the withdrawal of the German note to Belgium. The British ambassador was instructed that if he did not receive satisfaction, to ask for his passports. Goschen, the ambassador, went to the Wilhelmstrasse and handed in the British ultimatum. Bethmann-Hollweg declared, "that the course adopted by the British government was terrible, that for a simple word, 'neutrality,' for a word which had often been displayed in war time; for a mere scrap of paper, England was going to fight a parent nation, who desired nothing else than, to remain her friend."

The 3rd August at midnight, no reply having reached Goschen the British Empire entered the world war.

(BY SPECTATOR).

Four newcomers make their appearance in the Hong Kong Football Association's League and Shield programme for the 1934-35 season, and judging from the number of entries in hand to-date, it looks very much as if the season ahead of us is going to be a big one.

This year, fortunately for Hong Kong the Interport contest against Shanghai will be held here and what with the League Shield, and International series, local followers of soccer are promised something exceptional.

The following entries have been received to date:—

First Division:—Royal Artillery, South China (two teams), East Lancashire Regiment, St. Joseph's F.C., Kowloon Football Club, Recreio, Hong Kong Football Club, Royal Navy, Lincolnshire Regiment, Hong Kong Police and the Chinese Athletic Association.

Second Division:—Royal Artillery, South China, East Lancashire Regiment, Kowloon Football Club, Royal Engineers, Eastern Athletic Association, Hong Kong Football Club, Royal Navy, Lincolnshire Regiment, and the Chinese Athletic Association.

Third Division:—South China, East Lancashire Regiment, Radio Sports Club, Kowloon Football Club, Royal Army Service Corps, Royal Engineers, Royal Army Medical Corps, Railway Recreation Club, Royal Air Force, Club de Recreio, Hong Kong University, Lincolnshire Regiment.

It is rumoured that the Police Recreation Club may enter a Chinese team from the Police Training School in the Third Division and as the latter have recently put up many a good performance against the European Police team, it is quite likely that Division.

The Eastern Athletic Association who, although affiliated to the local Association last year, did not take part in the League, are re-entering this year in the Second Division.

South China, runners-up in the first division last year have this season entered two teams in the Senior Division, and with the talent available and the knowledge that the Borderers, their vanquishers of last season, are participating they have excellent hopes of taking both first and second places at the conclusion of the season.

The Railway Recreation Club, newcomers to the Association make their first appearance in the Hong Kong League this season. I hear that they have a very fine junior division team and should be well placed this season.

The Royal Engineers have this season entered two teams in the League and make their appearance in the Second Division for the first time.

It will be noticed from the list of entries that the South Wales Borderers who last year won both the Hong Kong League and the Senior Shield have not entered as they leave the Colony in November for India and will be relieved by the Royal Welsh Fusiliers.

MISSING FOKI

Also Sum Of $5,500

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of a Chinese male, Lal Che-tho, alias Lal Chin-hung, for alleged fraudulent embezzlement of a sum of $5,500 from his master, Leong Ngai-pool of No. 18 Bonham Strand East, ground floor during the months of June and July.

The wanted man who is a native of Chor Yuen Village, was first discovered to be missing on the evening of July 26.

porary Lieutenant in November of the same year and became a full Lieutenant in January of 1915. His appointment as Captain took place in November of 1920. Major Fowkes saw service during the World War in France, Belgium and Russia and was wounded four times.

BREACH OF CONTRACT SEQUEL

Judgment for plaintiff with costs was yesterday awarded to Messrs. N. S. Moses and Co., Ltd., of No. 17, Queen's Road Central, by the Chief Justice, Mr. A.D.A. MacGregor at the Supreme Court, when a claim for $38,719.20 against Sheung Ip and Co., for breach of contract was heard.

Mr. H. G. Sheldon, instructed by Mr. F. E. Nash, represented plaintiff, the defendants not putting in an appearance. Plaintiff formally gave evidence that defendant contracted in August, 1931, to buy 400 bales of blankets, there being 100 pieces in each bale, at $1.65 per piece. Defendant failed to take delivery and the goods were eventually sold by public auction at a loss of $38,719.20.

Found in possession of one hundred counterfeit Hongkong ten cent pieces, Chiu Cheung, 22, unemployed, yesterday pleaded guilty to the charge before Mr. Macfadyen and was fined $50 in default one month's hard labour. Chiu Suk-wah, married woman, residing at No. 63 Third Street, ground floor, was yesterday fined $50 in default one month's imprisonment, when she appeared before Mr. Hamilton at the Central Magistracy on a summons of having kept an unregistered musical, Leung Mui, alias Leung Mukam.

An expulsion order was made against Kehan Singh, an unemployed Indian watchman, who yesterday appeared before Mr. E. W. Hamilton charged with having entered the Colony without a valid passport. Sergt. Russell said the defendant had been dismissed from the Macao Police Force. He had been instructed to ask for an expulsion order.

Lam Hing, unemployed sculler, was yesterday sentenced to two months' hard labour when he appeared before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy charged with the theft of a motor-car radiator cap, valued $25 and the property of Acting Sub-Inspector Ritchie.

GUARANTEE AGAINST ARREST

Two Chinese married couples, and who were on Monday evening engaged in a free fight in Tung Street, appeared before Mr. Macfadyen at the Central Magistracy charged with disorderly conduct.

Acting Sub Inspector Cunningham said the first defendant paid 15 cents to the third defendant which was supposed to be a guarantee against arrest. On Monday evening all four accused were causing obstruction when they were told to move by a Wei-haiwei constable. Recalling that he had paid that first defendant 15 cents, the third defendant picked up a bamboo pole and hit the former in the stomach.

"The question of squeeze has been gone into but we cannot get any corroborative evidence that any money was paid," said Inspector Cunningham.

The third defendant was fined $10, the first defendant $7 and the two women $2 each.

INQUEST HEARING FIXED

The inquest, on the death of the late Mr. W. L. Plew, who recently lost his life as a result of jumping from the top-floor verandah of Gloucester Buildings, has been fixed for Tuesday, August 7 at 2.30 p.m. before Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Central Magistracy.

TWO MORE DOG BITES

Chinese Male And Female Victimised

Two further cases of dog-bites were reported to the Police, two Chinese, a male and a female being admitted to the Government Civil Hospital.

Lai Lin Toi of No. 4 Wing Wan Terrace, who was bitten by her own dog was admitted to hospital late on Monday evening while the dog was sent to Kennedy Town for observation.

The other case in that in which a man named Wu Chin-Kan, of No. 14 Yik King Street, was bitten by a dog owned by a man

UNMANIFESTED CARGO SEQUEL

During the hearing of a case at the Central Magistracy yesterday in which Ngau Sze, married woman, was charged with having imported into the Colony, on board the s.s. Chuen Chow, 100 tins of saccharine without having entered the cargo on the manifest, Mr. F. H. Loseby who appeared for the defence submitted that the Imports and Exports Ordinance was to all intents and purposes a dead letter, this statement being contended by Mr. A. W. Grimmit who opposed the submission.

After evidence had been taken, the case was adjourned until August 13 at 2.15 for the production of the comrade of the vessel.

Mr. Loseby, however, intimated that he had extraordinary difficulty in understanding the Ordinance, and he hoped an officer of the Imports and Exports Department would read the Ordinance carefully and try to understand it. Mr. Loseby did not disclose the line of defence he would take.

Mr. Hamilton remarked that the gist of the Ordinance was that if goods were being taken for trade purposes, then they should be placed on the manifest.

Point at Issue

Mr. Loseby said the point was what constituted goods for trade.

Mr. Hamilton asked Mr. Grimmit to see Mr. Lloyd, the Superintendent of Imports and Exports, and tell him that an important question was going to arise, and ask him to be present; himself, or else that a Crown Officer be present to argue the case.

In reply to Mr. Loseby, Mr. Grimmit said he would call the document produced a correct manifest according to the Ordinance. It contained all the particulars the Imports and Exports Department demanded.

A Dead Letter?

Mr. Loseby:—Might I say that the Imports and Exports Ordinance is to all intents and purposes a dead letter?

Mr. Grimmit:—I certainly don't say so.

Mr. Loseby pointed out that in the 1930 Ordinance it was essential that the name of the consignors should be on the manifest, whereas it was not present on the document produced.

Mr. Grimmit agreed, saying that another manifest bearing this would be sent within 72 hours to the Statistical Department. But the document produced in Court was the one he worked on. It was a copy of the ship's manifest. The case was adjourned.

WINDING UP ORDER MADE

A winding-up order in respect of the British Film Distribution Co., Ltd., was made yesterday by the Chief Justice, Mr. A. D. A. MacGregor, on the application of Mr. D. McNeil, instructed by Mr. O. E. C. Marton, of Messrs. Deacons.

Mr. McNeil said there was no unusual feature about the application except that it was made by the company itself and not by a creditor, the reasons for which had been set out by Mr. Palmer in an affidavit. He asked that his Lordship grant the order and permission to appoint the Official Receiver as liquidator of the estate.

His Lordship expressed himself satisfied and made the order as stated.

Living in an un-numbered hut near the St. Louis Industrial School. The dog was also sent to Kennedy Town.

More Unmuzzled Dogs

Several summonses arising out of the muzzling-order were heard at the Central Magistracy yesterday before Mr. E. W. Hamilton and Mr. Macfadyen.

M. A. Cooper of Lugard Hall, Hong Kong University, was fined $10 by Mr. Macfadyen for allowing his dog to be astray without a muzzle and without a lead.

J. F. Grose of No. 55, Conduit Road, was also fined $10 by Mr. Hamilton for allowing his yellow chow dog to be without a muzzle. Defendant said the muzzle had slipped.

Cheung Wing Kai, of No. 89 Robinson Road was fined $5 for allowing his dog to be without a muzzle on Repulse Bay Beach.

Capital Punishment

(To the Editor, of the "Hong Kong Daily Press").

Dear Sir,—As a trial for murder has just been concluded and another murder has recently been committed, I wish to raise again with the citizens of Hong Kong the question of the death sentence.

My proposal is that for an experimental period of twenty years every death sentence should be commuted.

This is a matter for the Governor in Council; I do not wish to suggest that it can be settled by an expression of civic opinion. It is however my hope that if a measure of public support is forthcoming for an experiment of this kind, the Government will accede to our request.

My reasons are as follows:—
(1) Hong Kong provides the British Commonwealth with an admirable laboratory for experiments and should be so used.

(2) In the case of an experiment in the abolition of Capital Punishment, Hong Kong has the advantage of a highly trained and efficient Government. Frequent use of the death sentence is always a sign of weak government. The Hong Kong Government is strong enough to dispense with it altogether.

(3) I am convinced that thought of penalty never deters a murderer. Therefore, abolition could not, I hope, lead to any increase in murder. For the same reason I do not believe abolition would lead to a decrease in the number of murders committed. Any slight increase or decrease in an experimental period would be due to other reasons. My conviction is that Government, finding at the close of the experimental period no considerable increase in the number of murders committed, would abolish the death penalty altogether.

(4) In the early part of this year I pointed out that once a murderer becomes "known intimately as a person" to the community, the demand for commutation of sentence becomes acute. For this reason it would be virtually impossible for the death sentence to be carried out on any European. We would know so much about his temptations, about his difficulties, about the reasons that led him to act that we would insist that the full vigour of the law was stayed in his case.

Please let me make this point quite clear. This would not be done out of racial prejudice, or for reasons of prestige, or for any reason reflecting on British justice. Justice must necessarily be impersonal, and the central fact about men and women is that they are persons. Once a man or woman becomes known to us as a person, impersonal treatment of them becomes intolerable.

(5) But Capital Punishment not only means treating a person impersonally, it means destroying that person. Whatever our beliefs about life after death, our theory of Capital Punishment is not based on our beliefs. A penalty, which destroys the personality, even of one who has himself destroyed another person, is a survival from more primitive days. This survival is only possible because of a habit of impersonal thinking about those whom we do not know as persons.

(6) Capital Punishment survives from the days when retribution was considered moral action. Punishment can be defined as:

- (a) Retributive
- (b) Deterrent
- (c) Reformatory

Capital Punishment plainly cannot be the Reformatory. An experimental period could show how far it is or is not a deterrent. The Retributive view of punishment is no longer considered tenable by any outstanding Christian thinker. It originates in a legal and therefore an impersonal view of life. The law is useful just because it is impersonal, but when the final question of destroying a personality is concerned the limit of useful impersonal action has been reached.

(7) Lastly, please understand this is not an official letter, but an increasing number of church leaders, led by Dr. William Temple, the Archbishop of York, are convinced that the arguments used to justify the death sentence in the past are no longer valid. We believe that we are interpreting the mind of Christ in pleading for abolition.

I therefore write to ask any men or women of good will who share

NULLAH OUTRAGE SEQUEL CHINESE CHARGED WITH MURDER OF MICHAEL PINE

Story Of Dramatic Rescue

The sensational incident in Albany nullah, opposite the Lower Peak Tramway station on the afternoon of June 22 when five British children were thrown into the nullah, was recalled at Central Magistracy yesterday when a Chinese named Ng Lok Yuen, alias Ng Yik Sang was charged before Mr. E. W. Hamilton with the murder of Michael Pine, aged 8, and the attempted murder of the other children.

A dramatic story of the rescue of the children was related by the Assistant Attorney General, Mr. J. A. Fraser, in his outline of the case, and the medical evidence given by Dr. D. J. Valentine was to the effect that the accused smelled strongly of alcohol on admission to the hospital and that he had endeavoured to escape from the prison ward.

The children concerned, it will be recalled, were Michael and Mary Pine (twins), Fay Bromley, Tony Flood and Norman Stone.

How Accused Was Arrested

Mr. J. A. Fraser, assistant Attorney General, appeared for the Crown, and Mr. R. C. H. Lim, instructed by Mr. J. M. Hall, represented the accused.

Outlining the facts of the case, Mr. Fraser said that on the afternoon of June 22, five children, Michael and Mary Pine, Fay Bromley, Tony Flood and Norman Stone were playing on the bridge which carried the path below the railway bridge just opposite the Lower Peak Tram Station. It went across the nullah called the Albany nullah.

That afternoon just before the incident, Woo Lai the gateman of the tram station, saw these children playing and immediately afterwards they were thrown over, one by one, by a Chinese alleged to be the accused. After throwing the last of the children into the nullah, he jumped over himself.

Mrs. Fairburn who was going down past Garrison School saw the last two children being thrown over from the bridge which crossed the nullah a little way down. The children were thrown in between the road and the railway bridge, actually on the west side of the road bridge and rather nearer to the south end. From that bridge one could see another bridge lower down. Mrs. Fairburn was approaching that bridge from the east side and saw this man throw over two children and then himself jump into the nullah. As the man threw the children, he faced away from Mrs. Fairburn, standing sideways. She could not see below the bridge at that point. The bridge was quite high above the nullah which was flowing strongly at the time. There had been a great deal of rain and the nullah was at least over knee deep in water for grown-up persons. Apparently by the time Mrs. Fairburn had seen this incident, three children had already disappeared.

The Rescue
The evidence was that the children were thrown over. Two of them, Fay Bromley and Tony Flood were almost immediately rescued by two chair coolies, Ching Kam and Woo Hay who were called by Mrs. Fairburn. Fay Bromley was handed over to Inspector Andrews of the Peak Tramways. A flitter engaged by the Peak Tramways rescued Tony Flood, who was then just below the bridge and got stuck on the other side, but Fay Bromley remained kneeling on the other side.

my views, or who wish to discuss them, further, to communicate with me as soon as possible. Our desire for Hong Kong is that she should continue the good work begun by our fathers, who, by their honourable traditions of trade, have made Hong Kong what it is. To continue their good work means for our generation that we should go forward to new ventures of faith in community life, letting gradually higher and higher ideals inspire us so that British justice in the Far East stands, not for conservative self-righteousness, but for courageous social experiment and understanding dealing with unfortunate men and women, who, because of their upbringing and their environment, menace our common life.

In a matter so vital, I know that I have no need to apologise for writing at some length, but I am, Sir, most grateful to you for your courtesy.

Yours, etc.,

DR. MORRISON

Centenary Observed In Fitting Manner

August 1, 1934, the centenary of Dr. Robert Morrison, was celebrated in a fitting manner when a party, under the leadership of the Rt. Rev. Bishop Hall, paid a visit to Macao where a short service was held in the little church adjoining the Protestant Cemetery followed by the placing of wreaths on the grave of Dr. Morrison.

It was a very impressive ceremony altogether. When the party arrived at Macao they were met by Mr. Herbert Phillips, Consul-General for Canton and Macao and Mr. F. C. Gellion. As the ceremony was not held until 3 p.m. the party broke up into small groups which went on sight-seeing trips and at the appointed time they met at the Cemetery which is situated in a delightful corner of the Portuguese Colony.

Although the place was neat enough, there were very evident signs that the appeal for funds for "repairs to the cemetery" is an urgent one and in view of the fact that some very distinguished people are buried in that grave yard, it is to be hoped that more support will be forthcoming in answer to that appeal.

At The Church

The service at the Church was taken by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Hall while the Consul-General, Mr. Phillips, read the Lesson from the third book of Wisdom. Others who took part were the Rev. E. G. Powell, Rev. C. D. Cousins and Mr. Wat Lok Hing the last named speaking in Chinese.

Following this was a procession, headed by Bishop Hall, to the grave of Dr. Morrison where the following wreaths were laid:—

Mr. Herbert Phillips, on behalf of the British community in South China;

Dr. Gibson and Mr. S. V. Boxer, for the London Missionary Society.

Rev. E. G. Powell on behalf of the Hong Kong Centenary Committee;

Prof. L. Forster on behalf of the Tyneside community of Hong Kong;

Dr. Tsao and the Rev. Paul S. F. T'sao on behalf of the Chinese Y.M.C.A., Hong Kong;

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Gellion.

A group photograph brought the proceedings to a close. It would be of interest to note that since February last, a vast improvement has been made in the church and cemetery, both of which have been put in better order. This is attributed to the keen and enthusiastic work put in by Mr. F. C. Gellion, the resident Trustee of the Cemetery.

THOSE PRESENT

The party from Hong Kong included the Rt. Rev. R. O. Hall, Bishop of Victoria, the Hon. Sir William Shenton and the Rev. E. G. Powell, vice-chairman of the Centenary Committee, Rev. Dr. E. L. Allen, Prof. and Mrs. L. Forster, Mrs. E. G. Powell, Rev. Rudland Showell, Lingnan University, Rev. J. Foster, Union Theological College, Canton, Dr. R. M. Gibson, London Missionary Society, Rev. A. K. Reilly, Rev. Paul S. F. T'sao, St. Paul's Church, Mr. Yimson Hsin Tsao, General Secretary, Chinese Y.M.C.A., Hong Kong, Mr. E. S. Wang, General Secretary of the Shanghai Civic Association, Rev. C. D. Cousins, London Missionary Society, Mr. S. V. Boxer, Morrison Hall, The University, Mr. Henry Gray, Miss B. M. Pope, Mr. Wat Lok Hing, Miss W. I. Griffin, Miss M. Coghlan, Miss Elliott and Mr. J. R. Luke.

Sunday's Service

His Excellency the Governor, Sir William Peel, K.C.M.G., K.B.E., accompanied by his A.D.C. will attend the United Church service in connection with the Morrison Centenary observances, which is to be held at the Volunteer Headquarters parade ground at 6 p.m., next Sunday.

Addresses will be given by the Bishop and by the Rev. Wong Oi Tong, and there is to be a massed choir. The band of the South Wales Borderers will provide the hymn accompaniments.

A display of books used and produced by Dr. Morrison is now being held at the shop window of Messrs. Kelly & Walsh, Chater Road.

HU HAN MIN

INTERVIEWED The Tangku Agreement Criticism

Mr. Hu Han-min recently granted an interview to Press representatives in the course of which he discussed (1) the negotiations for the abolition of the Tangku Agreement at Dairen, and (2) the recent revision of the import and export tariffs.

Mr. Hu at the outset contradicted the report that he had cleared up all misunderstandings with Nanking and was about to make a trip to Europe.

Referring to the Tangku Agreement, which was signed on May 31st, 1933, Mr. Hu said that since the signing of the Agreement, Manchuria was no longer regarded as an integral part of China as the agreement had provided that Luan-tung was a neutral zone and that the area beyond the Great Wall was the "Manchukuo" territory. Mr. Wang Ching Wei, President of the Executive Yuan, in his declaration, said that the Tangku Agreement included only military and not political matters. Since then, the Japanese made use of this Agreement and forced Nanking to carry out the "through traffic and through mail" provisions, while Gen. Huang Fu and Mr. Wang Ching Wei, during that time, still stated that there was no secret stipulation included in the Tangku Agreement, so no outsider could apprehend the mystery of the Agreement. Mr. Hu was of the opinion that the agreement contained more than has been divulged to the public.

"A certain diplomatist who had recently returned from Europe, has said: 'Since the Japanese Foreign Office had issued the "Hands-off China Policy" on April 17th, all the Chinese ministers in Europe had received special instructions from Mr. Wang Ching Wei, prohibiting them to make any statement against Japan. Besides, there were other cables stating that the wishes of Marshal Chiang Kai-shek, Chairman of the National Military Committee, should not be obstructed, thus the Executive Yuan and the Foreign Office of Nanking are both evading responsibility for the concluding of the Tangku Agreement.'"

The Customs
Mr. Hu mentioned that the recent enforcement of the new Customs Regulations was a ruin to the industry of the country and as a means of facilitating Japan's continual economic invasion in China. The far-reaching results cannot be adequately expressed.

China's Customs, after securing independence since 1928, had been revised thrice, firstly in February 1929, secondly in January 1932, and thirdly in May 1933. "Formerly" continued Mr. Hu, "all revisions in custom regulations had their reasons, and were forwarded to the Legislative Yuan for approval, but this time it was not so, as the new tariff regulations drafted by the financial Ministry, passed by the Executive Yuan and was approved by the Government for execution. They were not approved according to the regular procedure, and the Legislative Yuan again ignored its responsibility in the matter. There must be some objectionable points in the new tariff regulations as they were approved without much consideration. They include the following defects: (1) by increasing the tariffs of all mineral products and machinery, a blockade is laid to the development of home industries thus endangering the expansion of local labour works; (2) local industries are ruined by the general decrease of textile tariff ratios, whereby encouraging the influx of foreign goods. Local textiles are already on the verge of collapse, and with the introduction of the new Tariff they are worse than before. On the other hand, the increase of luxury tariff ratios is quite reasonable, but away sea weeds, etc., which are not daily necessities, have had their tariffs reduced. If we look through the whole of the revised tariff regulations we can find that they appear to be revised purposely in favour of Japan."

at the Savoy Hotel. The following were present:—

Mr. H. A. J. Macray, Sir Thomas Strangman, Mr. R. E. N. Padfield, Mr. F. Anderson, Mr. A. H. Ferguson, Mr. L. N. Leefe, Mr. Ellis Hayman, Mr. Charles V. Sale, Mr. E. M. Gull, Mr. M. Wolfers, Mr. W. F. Alexander, Mr. W. B. Kennett, Mr. Looker, and Mr. H. C. Wilcox.

MARCONI'S NEW INVENTION

RESULT OF RESEARCH WITH SHORT WAVES

Safe Steering For Ships And Aeroplanes

(Special to "Hong Kong Daily Press")
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894.
Received, August 1, 7:30 p.m.)

Milan, August 1. The secret about Senator Marconi's new epoch making invention which has been a guarded secret was at last revealed on Monday when the inventor invited a number of distinguished guests including the President of the Italian Radio Service, the Presidents of Italian shipping concerns as well as a number of the highest British and Italian Marine officers and engineers to make a cruise on his private yacht "Elektra" near Sestri Levante on the Riviera.

The new invention is said to have cost Senator Marconi a great amount of engineering research with short-waves, which enable steamers and aeroplanes to steer with perfect accuracy without any alarm even in the densest of fogs. Moreover, Senator Marconi declared that with the same apparatus the ship is able to determine the exact distance the ship is from port or any other object not more than two miles distant. Monday's experiment at sea succeeded completely.

Sestri Levante is about 90 metres above the signals transmitted while an "electro" was carried with a ringing set. The yacht, left Santa Argia on a set course and within a short space of time the vessel had entered a fog bound coast, the yacht being completely enveloped so that the steering course was left to the invention. The apparatus was by then in operation and the vessel was steered with perfect accuracy on its course between islands and through an entrance in the harbour.

It is believed that this invention will save thousands of lives and millions of pounds of property yearly by reason of its reliability.

ILLNESS OF PRESIDENT VON HINDENBURG

Conjectures As To His Successor

Berlin, Aug. 1. Despite a quiet night, President von Hindenburg's weakness is increasing, states a bulletin issued at 8.30 this morning. He had no fever but his pulse is weaker.

A bulletin issued at noon states that President von Hindenburg's condition is unchanged. He is mentally active and took some food at noon.

—Reuter.

THE NEXT PRESIDENT

Berlin, Aug. 1. Political circles are of the opinion that Chancellor Hitler will be the future head of Germany either as President or Minister of the Reich. It is stated in well-informed quarters that "all other conjectures must be discarded as idle guesswork."

The "Deutsche Zeitung" frankly disclosed that Chancellor Hitler will be von Hindenburg's successor. As a consequence the publication of the paper was suspended for a week though the announcement appeared to reflect not only the wishes of all ardent Nazis but the general opinion in Government circles.

—Reuter.

CHANCELLOR'S VISIT

Berlin, Aug. 1. Chancellor Hitler, accompanied by his personal staff, flew to Neudeck this morning to visit von Hindenburg at his sick bed. The President's family has already arrived.

The police are largely reinforced around the estate, stopping and questioning all pedestrians and motorists approaching Neudeck before they are allowed to proceed.

Chancellor Hitler is expected to return to Berlin to-night.

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894.
Received, July 29, 7:30 p.m.)

Neudeck, Aug. 1. The Reich President's medical attendant states that President Hindenburg's bodily condition is unchanged since this morning. The President's mental alertness continues and towards mid-day he partook of a light meal.

BERLIN PRESS CONCERN

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press") (Copyright.)

Berlin, July 31. Though the whole of the Berlin Press voices grave concern over the serious illness of President von Hindenburg, the latest bulletin from the Reich President's summer home in Neudeck issued late on Tuesday afternoon, reassures the public that the aged Field Marshal's condition had taken no change for the worse in the course of the day. The message which was signed by the attending physician, Professor Sauerbruch states that Hindenburg took a small amount of nourishment at midday, the pulse was satisfactory and there was no fever.

—Transocean Kuo Min.

SURPRISE TO PUBLIC

Neudeck, Aug. 1. The news of President von Hindenburg's grave condition has come as a complete surprise. He was walking in the grounds two days ago and driving around Neudeck with his daughter-in-law.

Besides the four men doctors in attendance, Professor Bergmann, the famous woman doctor, is at his bedside.

President von Hindenburg is suffering from asthma, and is also partially paralysed. A contributing factor to the sudden worsening of the President's condition is his scorn for doctors and his persistent refusal to obey orders.

A STRANGE PHENOMENON

Fish Brought Down In Violent Rainfall

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894.
Received, August 1, 7:30 p.m.)

Budapest, August 1. Farmers living round about the Hungarian villages in the Tarica Province say that a phenomenon was formed during a violent downfall of rain on Tuesday when the fields became covered with thousands of tiny fish.

The explanation given for the phenomenon is that while the fish were basking on the surface of some river a waterspout took form and swept the millions of fish from the river over a vast area.

Specimens of the fish are being sent to Budapest University for examination.

CEYLON QUOTA DISPUTE

Conflict Averted

Colombo, August 1.

The threatened conflict between the Board of Ministers and the British Government regarding anti-Japanese quotas which are to be enforced in Ceylon has been averted.

An unofficial meeting of the Board decided that there is no occasion to resign or for dissolution of the State Council as the action of Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister does not disclose a defect in the constitution but as an extra constitutional exercise of powers inherent in the King.

"I DID NOT WANT TO KILL DOLLFUSS"

Panetta Goes To His Death With Firm Tread

Vienna, July 31.

The confessed killer of Dollfuss, Panetta, and the leader of the band of insurgents which captured the Chancellery, Holzweber, were promptly hanged at 5 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon behind the court building in which a special court-martial had condemned them to death for high treason and murder, exactly three hours before. The regulations of the summary court require the executions to take place three hours after judgment had been pronounced unless the President of the Republic grants a reprieve.

The last half hour of the trial provided a series of sensational speeches led off by an impassioned defence on the motives of the accused by their attorney, Dr. Fuehrer. Despite the constant rebukes from the judge, the defence counsel pleaded, feelingly that a portion of the Austrian people who are working for the Anschluss with Germany is no less patriotic in working for the good of the Fatherland than their opponents who favour Austria's independence. Both defendants will have died the death of self sacrifice for the German people, comparable to that of Leo Schlageter who was executed by the French during the Ruhr invasion.

Dr. Fuehrer further emphasised that all the defendants were given a formal pledge of safe escort to the frontier at the time when the Chancellor's death was already known, and he reminded the Bench that the Court was further obligated by other official words—those of Dollfuss himself who requested that no more blood be shed.

Panetta rose slowly and made the following simple last statement through his pale lips "I am no murderer. I did not want to kill Chancellor Dollfuss. I beg Frau Dollfuss' forgiveness."

Holzweber, on the other hand, spoke out vigorously "I am innocent of the murder. Express directions had been given for no blood to flow. We believed we would find Dr. Rintelen inside the Chancellery when we forced our way in. At least so we had been told the day before. I can only say I acted out of burning love for the Fatherland."

An official report of the execution describes both insurgents as going to their death in manly fashion with a firm tread and heads held high.

"We Will Impeach The Real Murderers—"

Vienna, Aug. 1. Rintelen is now rapidly recovering from his wound and telling all he knows. The authorities hope through him to implicate the Reich.

Attacks on the Reich, for instigating the putsch have been redoubled. A manifesto posted on pillars throughout the city declares, "we will impeach the real murderers sitting in security beyond the frontier."

A DRASTIC PURGE

Vienna, Aug. 1. The situation is now dominated by questions of clean-up of services and relations with Germany.

A drastic purge has begun with the reorganization of the police police organisation and wholesale dismissals of public servants and schoolmasters in Styria and Carinthia, where there have been many arrests. The Government is determined to mercilessly root out the influential opponents.

PROPAGANDA MUST CEASE

Vienna, Aug. 1. A clear indication of the Government insisting on a definite condition before accepting von Papen as Germany's Minister in Vienna is contained in an article in the Government organ "Reichspost" which says that his arrival must coincide with cessation of Nazi propaganda in Austria and recognition of the Austrian Legion must cease to exist in Germany.

AUSTRO-GERMAN RELATIONS

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Vienna, July 31. It is understood in well informed circles that the Austrian Government's "agreement" to von Papen's appointment as German Minister to Vienna, will be given on Wednesday or Thursday, the Cabinet's decision to send the Undersecretary of Foreign Affairs, Tauschitz, back to his old post as Austria's diplomatic representative to Berlin being widely construed as evidencing the new Government's earnest desire to bring Austro-German relations back to normal.

Contrary to the foreign Press reports, the Austrian "agreement" will not be made conditional on the German Government giving certain political guarantees though it is stated on good authority that the Austrian Government, as a matter of formality, intends to seek clarification of some questions before granting the "agreement."

THREE WICKETS FALL FOR EIGHT RUNS

But Game Saved After Bowlers Gain Quick Successes

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 15.

Although the battle of Bramall-lane between Yorkshire and the Australians ended in a draw, it was vital and fascinating until the final hour.

The Australians gained the lead on the first innings by 8 runs, but they immediately enhanced this minor success when Yorkshire batted again by taking three wickets for 8 runs. A struggle already gripped thus became intense.

Yorkshire survived, however, until a few minutes after tea, their hard-won 157 leaving the Australians to get 150. Unfortunately, a mere forty minutes remained, so that batsmen and bowlers alike were content to collaborate in playing out time.

Bowles' Final Bid

When play began in hot morning sunshine the Australians were 114 for seven, so that they required 27 to pass the Yorkshire total of 340. But Bowles set to work with the ball as though determined that his county should be the first of the season to beat them on the first innings, and he promptly spreadeagled Grimmett's stumps, following two fine bouncers that gave the little bowler a first-wicket air.

Six runs later, at 31, Bowles bowled Wall as well. There was a fire in his attack that suggested a fast bowler's pitch, and had Fleetwood-Smith, not been missed off him as soon as he came, in Bowles would have achieved his purpose. As it was, the strong-shouldered England put all his heart into some hitting that carried the score past Yorkshire's before his middle stump was uprooted.

This was Bowles' wicket; also, he had taken three for 10 in just over three overs, and during the destructive spell which opened with the defeat of Barnett and Darling last night he had splendid figures—five overs, two balls, one maiden 19 runs, five wickets.

Fit For The Test

Better still, Bowles assured me that the exertion had not affected his doubtful knee adversely, and that he is ready for the Leeds Test if called upon. Leyland gave me a similar assurance about himself, and of the Yorkshire contingent Sutcliffe remains the only doubtful starter.

When the county batted in their second innings at a quarter past twelve, Sutcliffe was absent, as I foretold after his mishap on Saturday, and Mitchell was accompanied to the crease by Wood. Of this unfamiliar pair it was Mitchell who did the unexpected, for in Wall's second over, with only six on the score sheet, he was bowled in very fast, as it did in Ebeling's second over also, when Barber too was bowled. Only one run had been added, and 6,000 Sheffielders sat up! They were quickly dismayed a third time, for Wall came again and crashed Leyland's off stump down. Six—seven—eight! Did ever Yorkshire's first three wickets fall with such sensational rapidity!

To those behind the scenes there was more in that first thrilling hour than the fall of six wickets for 42 runs, for the success of the Australian fast bowling was uncommonly rich in human interest. It meant that Wall and Ebeling were having a tug-of-war on their own. Wall was striving might and main to keep his "unlucky" place in the fourth Test; Ebeling was striving might and main to join or supersede him.

However, Wood and Turner stayed them off for the time being, and Grimmett and Fleetwood-Smith, relieving them, had to bowl for three-quarters of an hour before another wicket fell.

Turner greatly improved since the first innings, was bowled at 44, and Yorkshire's position at lunch was 46 for four. Wood had made 21 of these, and although Grimmett put him in a maze he batted staunchly. He went on after lunch to complete his first 50 of the season in two hours, and he and Sellers sent up the 100 before he was, easily, caught and bowled at 102.

Verity In The Breach

Two balls later Wall took Sellers' middle stump, and again Yorkshire were wracked with anxiety. But the Australians had the clock to race now, and Verity obstructed them so successfully for an hour—first with Smiles, who was low at 139, and then with Macaulay—that by the time he was caught at square-leg the clock said ten past four and the score had to 147.

Yorkshire had only one batsman left, but the players chose to take tea before Bowles went in, which suggested they considered the match virtually ended, especially as the pause lasted twenty-five minutes.

Two overs were enough for the completion of Yorkshire's knock, and then another ten minutes were used up. The end was pure calm after the storm.

MIDDLESEX FAIL AGAIN

Another brilliant spell of bowling by Mitchell at Derby brought the match with Middlesex to a swift end—Derbyshire won a few minutes after lunch, by 278 runs. This was Derbyshire's eighth victory, and their fourth successive win in the championship.

Mitchell, who is a candidate for a place in England's Test team, has met with such success in his last three games—against Worcestershire, the Australians and Middlesex—that he has taken 33 wickets for less than 10 runs apiece. And he has achieved these performances on hard, fast wickets—a tribute to his ability to spin the ball.

Yesterday Mitchell again had all the Middlesex batsmen in difficulties with his clever variation of pace and flight combined with appreciable spin. Taking seven wickets for 57 runs, he made his figures for the match 13 for just over 8 runs apiece.

With the exception of Hearne and Hendren, the Middlesex batsmen fell easy prey to Mitchell, and in a little more than two hours the side were all out for 117. Hearne stayed three-quarters of an hour and hit four 4's—three of them off Mitchell—and Hendren was unbeaten with 34 against his.

BAKEWELL'S VAIN BID

A century by Bakewell—his first of the summer—could not save Northants from defeat at Edgbaston. Though scoring 291, they left Warwickshire only 27 to get to win, the home county knocking off the runs for the loss of a wicket.

With better support Bakewell might have staved off defeat. Pating three hours and three-quarters for his 132, he gave an enterprising display, hitting sixteen 4's and passing his 1,000 runs for the season.

EASY FOR SUSSEX

Hopelessly placed at the start of the day, Hampshire lost to Sussex by an innings and 119 runs at Southampton. Although Creese and Potchecary put on 65 in three-quarters of an hour, the five outstanding wickets went down in 90 minutes for 110.

Potchecary remained unbeaten when the game ended with 49 to his credit. Creese, who gave a fine display of hard, well-timed driving on either side of the wicket, hit half a dozen 4's.

HOME RACING

Colombo's Rider And Lord Glanely

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 19.

Last week has been an eventful one in English racing.

There was the separation of Lord Glanely and his jockey, W. R. Johnstone, so that never again will that jockey and Colombo be associated. There was Donoghue's decision by which he will ride for another year as the alternative to a guarantee of support if he would set up as a trainer at Newmarket. And there came the news of the serious break in the relations between Major Dermot McCalmont and his cousin, Mr. H. S. Persse, who for so many years has trained at Stockbridge.

Arising out of the parting was the sending of the McCalmont horses from Stockbridge to be trained by the Hon. George Lambton at Newmarket. The parting was entirely unlooked for. Sometimes one can sense an approaching rupture and be prepared for it. When an owner in such circumstances has changed stables there has been no surprise.

Purchase Of The Tetrarch

The McCalmont-Persse association had lasted so long, and it had been so enormously successful at times. "Atty" Persse has told me that when he purchased the freakishly grey and white spotted yearling, The Tetrarch, at auction for 1,300 guineas he had in mind offering it to his cousin, though he was not sure he would take it. We know that he did.

Never was there a more momentous purchase. The grey was, indeed, a marvel, and I shall always regret that he never ran after his undefeated career as a two-year-old. Right away he began to sife stock that did big things. The yearling that still holds the record highest price for his purchase, Blue Ensign, was by him. Lord Glanely thought he was getting a treasure when he paid 14,500 guineas for him.

Three six-legged winners, he sired in Caligula, Polemarch, and Salmon Trout. His son, Tetraema, won the Two Thousand Guineas, and in turn achieved championship honours as a sire. Tetraema sired Mr. Jinks, a classic winner, and, of course, the old horse, until he lost his usefulness at the stud, and the other two, became sources of splendid revenue for their owner.

No doubt Major McCalmont has been hard hit by the incidence of the duty on bloodstock sent by him from Ireland, and through the disinclination of English breeders to send their mares to the important sires in Ireland. I understand he has made arrangements for Mr. Jinks to be sent to England for the 1935 season, and that this grey horse, who has made the right sort of start with his first crop of two-year-olds, is to stand at the Highclere Stud, which is the property of Lord Carnarvon. Thus Mr. Jinks will join in England Blandford and Brandford's son, Trigo, though not at the same stud.

Johnstone's Riding Of Colombo I hope the jockey, Johnstone, will speedily re-establish himself in France, whether he is proceeding this week. He has ridden in some important racing countries of the world, but he says that never has he struck such a bad patch of ill-luck as in this country. With the exception of Colombo, Lord Glanely may never have had such a bad lot of horses. Now that he no longer holds the position he did with Lord Glanely I can say that I did not think Johnstone should have allowed himself to be so pocketed as he was in the Derby on Colombo at the most critical part of the descent of Tattenham Corner.

It was absolutely fatal to such chance as the horse had. And I do not think he should have given Flamenco five or six lengths lead into the short and uphill straight at Ascot when Colombo was beaten half a length.

Winstep's Defeat

I thought Johnstone rode a good race on Winstep when that horse was beaten a neck for the Barnwell Stakes last week. Many disagreed, and I found myself in a minority. I thought I had seen this horse lose his place on the slope into the dip as if he could not act downhill and was probably feeling the ground. I saw him make up ground immediately the rising ground was met, and though Johnstone made a lot of use of the whip he seemed to get all possible out of his mount.

My sense of fairness made me say that he rode a good race. I

Lord Derby Loses Two Foals
Lord Derby has had the misfortune to lose two well-bred foals. They are a colt by Fairway from Piazzetta and a colt by Sansovino from Fair Isle. Piazzetta must have been about the last of the produce of the famous mare Condolette. She had previously bred Pisa, now in Lady Yule's stud, and Gludecca.

Fair Isle won the One Thousand Guineas for Lord Derby. She lost her first year at the stud through proving barren. Her first foal is now a yearling, St. Magnus, and now she has lost her second foal. It is rather a tragic start for a classic winner.

Perry's Terrific Struggle

London, July 31.

Great Britain retained the Davis Cup for the second year in succession when on the final day, Perry and Austin beat Shields and Wood respectively, each winning in four sets.

Perry beat Shields after a terrific struggle, particularly in the fourth set, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2, 15-13, while Austin literally ran Wood off his feet, 6-4, 6-0, 6-8, 6-3.

PERRY'S VICTORY

London, July 31.

The match between Perry and Shields yesterday was a long and desperate struggle, lasting two hours and twenty minutes, the last set taking over an hour, Perry running out for victory after 23 games.

Perry, playing a careful, waiting game, allowed Shields to make the mistakes. He came up to the net judiciously, and led 3-0 in the first set. The scores, however, went to 5-4 after some fine smashing on the part of the American, but Perry secured the next game for set.

Shields took the second set at 6-4, mainly on his opponent's errors.

In the third set, however, Perry took a firm grip on the game, and led 3-0. In spite of brilliant smashing by Shields, in this set the American lost several points through footfaulting and Perry won for the loss of only two games.

A Desperate Struggle

The last set, one of the most desperate ever witnessed on Wimbledon's famous No. 1 court, was featured by long rallies. Perry took the lead at 3-1, but Shields, fighting desperately, levelled the match at 4-4. Perry, however, led at 9-8, and at 10-9.

A brilliant effort on the part of the American gave him the next two games to give him the lead for the first time, at 11-10, but he was unable to maintain the pressure, Perry again drawing ahead at 12-11.

From then on the games went with service, to 12-11, 13-12, 14-13, when Perry's superior skill and stamina enabled him to break through the American's service to win the set and match at 15-13.

Austin-Wood Match

Compared with the duel between Perry and Shields the final match, between Bunny Austin and Sydney Wood, contained few thrills.

Austin outmanoeuvred and outplayed Wood, who was incapable of dealing with the British player's accurate driving from the corners.

Austin only dropped one set to the American, recording easy victories in the other three.—Reuter.

GOLF TITLE FOR MISS BARTON

A Brilliant Victory In France

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 15.

Miss Pamela Barton, aged 17, of the Royal Mid-Surrey Golf Club, to-day won the Women's Open Golf Championship of France, writes a correspondent. She defeated Mlle. Denise Lavigne, of the St. Germain Club, by 11 and 9, in the 36-holes final.

In a conversation which I had with her this evening, after the match, Miss Barton confessed that she was herself rather surprised by her success. Her opponent, she said, began by playing so well that the result was more than she had dared to hope for when the match began.

When I asked her at what point of the game she began to feel that the match would be hers, she said that she did not really know. She felt all the time that she was matched with an opponent who was worthy of her best.

The match aroused tremendous interest and was closely followed by hundreds of golf enthusiasts who had travelled considerable distances to watch it.

"Was I thrilled? I should say I was!"

It was 17-year-old Pam Barton speaking. Immediately after her victory I rang up Le Touquet to offer my congratulations.

"Nervous? No, not really. I found that my experience in the British championship final two months ago was a great help. Besides, my sister Mervyn was one of the crowd who followed me round. There were a number of English girls in the gallery, and I knew how pleased they would be if I won."

"There's not much to say about my golf. Mlle. Lavigne played splendidly, especially after being so badly down at the end of the first round."

Miss Barton told me that she had no time to think of celebrations.

"It depends on what the rest of the family say," she said. "At the moment Mervyn and I are packing up, and we are coming back straight to London."

Miss Barton has now been playing golf ever since she was twelve and a half years old—nearly five years. In 1931 she was the youngest competitor in the girls' golf championship. Last year, in partnership with her sister Mervyn, she won the women's golf autumn foursomes at Ranelagh, and in May this year she was the runner-up in the British women's golf championship at Porthcawl. After a gallant fight she lost by 8 and 5 in the final to Mrs. Andrew Holm.

YOUNGEST CHAMPION

Miss Barton is the youngest player ever to win a national championship. Miss Enid Wilson began winning titles at the age of 18, while Miss Joyce Wethered was 19 when she beat Miss Cecil Letch in the final of the English championship. Mrs. Vere, as Miss Glenna Collett, began her American championship triumphs also at the age of 19; and Mme. Rene Lacoste, as Mlle. Thion de Chamae, was 18 when she won the French title.

Having watched Miss Barton's golf since she was a girl of 13 I can say that she is on the threshold of a wonderful career. Besides being a long hitter, with a good conception of most of the shots she has a splendid physique, a vital factor in long-drawn-out events and gruelling matches.

Miss Barton, when she started golf, became a member of West Middlesex, because she was too young to join Mid-Surrey. She was nearly lost to golf because when at school the sports mistress pleaded with her to give up the game in order that she might become a hockey international.

Gloucester Win By Innings

London, July 31.

Gloucestershire scored an innings victory over Worcester in the County cricket matches concluded to-day. Essex, Lancashire and Derby also took full points, but in the other four matches the winners obtained only first innings points.

The following were the results: Warwick secured first innings points from Sussex.

Warwick: 269 and 270 for 8 dec. Sussex: 251 (A. Melville 106 not out) and 18 for 3.

Yorkshire secured first innings points from Notts.

Yorkshire: 384 for 8 dec. Notts: 210 (Verity 8 for 85) and 242 for 9.

Surrey: 501 (E. R. T. Holmes 100) and 207 for 5 dec.

Kent: 431 (Ashdown 121) and 229 for 9.

Essex beat Glamorgan by two wickets.

Glamorgan: 152 (P. Smith 5 for 39) and 358 (Nichols 5 for 87).

Essex: 214 (J. C. Clay 6 for 37) and 307 for 8 (Pope 108).

Gloucester beat Worcester by an innings and 34 runs.

Worcester: 326 (C. Parker 7 for 87) and 285 (Goddard 7 for 105).

NULLAH OUTRAGE SEQUEL

these manholes, and on a dull day it is very dark inside. Along the east side of the nullah from the southernmost end, there is a pipe of cable covered with concrete, making a sort of ridge.

Felt a Man

It makes a good hand grip. Ptes. McCarthy and Simons came by that side. Simons was leading and keeping his hand on this pipe and as he came up between the second grating on the first man-hole, he felt a man standing against the wall facing downward into the nullah. He spoke to the man but received no reply. He seized the man with the assistance of McCarthy. The man struggled and bit Simons on the wrist. After a lapse of some time, Pte. Linton and Sergeant Geywood of the R.A.O.C. arrived. Geywood had followed Linton into the nullah with an electric torch. The man was still struggling furiously. Each of the four men took an arm and a leg and frog-marched him along the nullah. The man still continued to struggle and once actually got one hand free. All the time, the witnesses will say, he was hanging his head down in the water. He went limp and lost consciousness just as they reached the part of the nullah which goes into the outer air. Someone got a rope and the man was hoisted up the bank.

Attempt to Escape

He was given artificial respiration, the police was called and he was taken to the hospital. There he was examined and found to have been drinking. His leg was found to have been injured and it was put in a plaster of Paris splint. He was identified as the accused. While in hospital he had removed the hospital. Your Worship will remember that two men escaped from the Government Civil Hospital about the same time.

Later on July 9, he was charged and in reply, he said "I was drunk. I was unconscious and had a wound."

Accused's Movements

Enquiries into his movements show that he arrived in the Colony from Swatow on June 21, bringing with him a rattan suitcase. He said at the time that he was going to Singapore but that he had been cheated and had been put on a wrong boat and brought to Hongkong. He was then dressed in a cream coloured jacket and dark trousers and was wearing a rather unusual type of straw hat. He slept in the cockpit of a shop where he had previously been employed. He took his morning meal on June 22 at the shop but was missed later on in the afternoon. His suitcase was recovered on June 22 and in it was found certain letters. One was signed under the name was Ng Yik San.

Counsel's Objection

As Mr. Fraser was going to read the letter, Mr. Lim raised an objection saying that it would prejudice the case in the eyes of the public, but on Mr. Hamilton requesting the Press not to publish the contents, Mr. Lim waived his objection.

After reading the letters, Mr. Fraser went on to say that the police later held an identification parade and the accused was picked up by Mary Pine as the man who threw her over and by Mrs. Fairburn as the man she saw throwing the children into the nullah.

Regardless of whether the accused is the man who did this act or not, concluded Mr. Fraser, attention should be called to the gallantry and absolute disregard of safety shown by those people who took part in the rescue. The water was deep and the nullah was in many places, dangerous. There was great promptness and very great gallantry shown by a number of people.

Medical Evidence

Medical evidence was then given by Dr. D. J. Valentine of the Government Civil Hospital who said that at 3.45 p.m. on June 22, a British boy named Michael Pine, aged eight, was admitted to the hospital. He was suffering from concussion, being unconscious, and the effects of immersion. He had wounds about the head, and considerable bruising around the forehead. There were bruises over both knees. He was given treatment, but he never recovered consciousness and died at 6.10 p.m. the same day.

Mr. Fraser, who came with Michael Pine to the hospital? Dr. Valentine doesn't know who actually accompanied him when he arrived. I saw him immediately he was taken to the ward. Did you see the boy?—Not that I know of. The boy was actually in the nullah when I saw him.

Continuing his evidence, Dr. Valentine said that on the following day, the boy was identified by his father, Mr. T. H. J. Pine. A post-mortem examination was performed and he found that apart from the wounds which he had already described, the skull had been fractured at the back. The cause of death was a fractured skull.

Mr. Fraser: Were the injuries found such as would be compatible with the child's fall into a stone paved nullah from a height of, say ten feet?—Yes.

And subsequent immersion in water?—Yes.

His Worship: He was not drowned?—Oh, no.

Accused's Condition

Mr. Fraser: You saw the accused before?—Yes. At 4.15 p.m. on June 22 I was called into the receiving room to see another person who fell into the nullah and I went there and saw accused. He was suffering from the effects of immersion and a number of injuries which consisted mainly of abrasions and contusions. It was discovered later that there was a fracture on the right side. He was in a dazed condition. He did not answer any question. His breath smelled of alcohol and all he would say was in Chinese, words to this effect "I am drunk."

Asked by His Worship what exact Chinese words were used by the accused, Dr. Valentine replied "Yam Chau" (drink wine). Dr. Valentine then went on to say that the accused had a cut and bruising on the left side of the head.

Mr. Fraser: What happened on July 6th?—On that day there were three prisoners in the prison ward in the hospital including the accused. I visited the ward about 7 p.m. and the accused was not in his bed. I went straight to the bath room and found him in a peculiar position, half in and half out of the bath.

Mr. Fraser: Did you notice anything peculiar about him at this time?—Apart from what I have mentioned, no.

In fact the other two men escaped?—Yes, between 7.30 and 8.45, about half a hour after my visit.

When did you see the accused again after the escape?—Immediately the alarm was given. I was informed and I went down to the ward. I found the accused lying in his bed. I then discovered that his plaster of Paris had been removed. I also discovered that it had been soaked off in water. He could walk with the splint on and off.

Sound in Mind

Have you kept any observation on the accused with a view of finding his mental conditions?—Yes. All the time he was in hospital. Every time I took my rounds I used to converse with him. The result of my observation was that in my opinion, he was sound in mind.

All the time he has been in hospital?—Yes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Lim, Dr. Valentine said that he was not the only doctor who looked after the accused while he was in hospital. Dr. Thomas also treated him.

Mr. Lim: Were you the first to attend the accused when he was brought into the hospital?—Dr. Wong actually saw him first. I was really the first to attend to him.

Did Dr. Wong give him any treatment at all before you attended to him?—Not to my knowledge.

Was the accused taken directly to the ward on admission?—Yes.

You told us his breath smelled of alcohol, what was this general condition, for instance, what was the state of his eyes?—I made no note of his eyes at all.

Did you take his temperature?—Yes, but I did not do it myself.

That is the internal temperature, I presume?—Yes, taken in the mouth.

Did you notice his surface temperature, the colour of his skin?—When he first came in he was suffering from immersion. His surface temperature would be colder. He looked cold and blue.

Did you actually feel his surface temperature?—Yes.

Did you notice and hiccup present?—No.

Did you take any blood test?—No. I did not take that.

Re-examined by Mr. Fraser, witness said that he did not notice anything peculiar about accused's eyes.

P.W.D. and Sergeant Moran had produced plans and photographs respectively of the scene of the tragedy. Mrs. Kathleen Charlotte Fairburn was called into the witness-box.

Mrs. Fairburn's Evidence

She told the court that at the time of the tragedy she was just

SMASH AND GRAB FAILS

Attempt On Lane Crawford's Ltd.

An attempt at "smash-and-grab" in the early hours of yesterday morning failed when the thick plate glass window of Messrs. Lane Crawford's store resisted the attempt of an unknown Chinese robber to make off with a quantity of jewellery including Rolex watches.

The first sign of the attempted robbery was given at about 4.30 a.m. this morning, when Gerdal Singh, watchman employed by the firm, heard a crashing noise just outside the firm's jewellery department window, inside of which was a valuable display of Rolex watches.

Gerdal Singh found that the window had been badly cracked by what appeared to be two obviously heavy blows, the robber meanwhile was seen to disappear in the darkness of the alley-way. Beyond damaging the window it was ascertained that no other damage had taken place.

HYPERION FAIL AGAIN

Beaten In Dullingham Stakes

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 19.

Hyperion, whose overthrow in the Ascot Gold Cup was a big disappointment to Lord Derby and backers, failed to make the expected come-back in the Dullingham Stakes at Newmarket yesterday. Good odds were laid on the dual "classic" winner, which failed by inches to give 29-10 to Calithness.

It was the latter that set the pace, which amounted to nothing more than a good canter. A little over a quarter of a mile from home Hyperion came on the inside, and soon after went to the front. It then appeared as though Hyperion would win easily.

Calithness proved to be far from a spent force, however, as he tackled the favourite in earnest up the hill. Hyperion struggled gallantly, but the weight told, and shortening his stride Calithness was able to snatch the verdict on the post.

walking into No. 2 bridge when she saw a Chinese who was standing in the No. 1 bridge, throwing a boy and then a girl into the nullah. The man later jumped in himself. He was dressed in a white shirt, dark trousers and wearing a straw hat. No one was on the bridge at all. She immediately called out several chair coolies who were nearby, and two of them rescued the children. She had a side view of the accused.

On July 9, she attended an identification parade and picked out the accused. Her reasons for picking him up were that he was very thin and his hair was inclined to be long and shaggy. He has high cheek bones and sunken cheeks.

"Mr. Lim: When you first saw this man standing in the middle of the bridge or just going down?—I was just on the very beginning of No. 2 bridge.

You said he picked up the boy threw him into the nullah, then the girl and then jumped in himself. How long did he take to do this?—All in about a minute.

When he picked up the boy, did the boy struggle at all?—It is difficult to see. He seemed to just pick him up and throw him over.

What was the little girl doing when the boy was being thrown?—The girl seemed to be looking over.

Did the girl make an attempt to run away?—If she did, they were so near together I could hardly see.

Do you know Michael Pine's parents personally?—No.

Do you know any of the parents of the children who were unfortunately thrown over?—No. None of them.

Did you, after this incident, speak to any of them?—No.

Did you tell anyone of what you saw of this incident?—Yes. The first time was to a newspaper reporter, and then the police and my husband and personal friends.

Did you visit the hospital at all to see any of these children?—No.

KWANGTUNG NOW PEACEFUL

In Areas Cleared of Bandits

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, July 31.

That Kwangtung is peaceful following the suppression of Communists and bandits is the report of General Yu Han Mow, commanding officer of the First Army of the First Group Army now stationed in Southern Kiangsi.

Once a notorious stronghold of the Communists, South Mountain in Eastern Kwangtung is now very peaceful, according to general Yu. The place is now being developed into a farming district, and the people there can now live in peace without fear of the bandits.

Turning to the southern districts General Yu said that Hsu Man Shan is now an orderly and peaceful place after the bandits were driven away. The people who left the place in fear of the brigands have returned to till the soil and engage in agricultural pursuits.

The conditions in Hainan Island are also quiet, said General Yu, although the authorities are confronted with the return of a large number of returned emigrants owing to depression abroad. This problem is having the attention of the insular authorities. Brig-General Chen Han Kwong, commandant of the island, is civilising the Mew and Lai Aborigines.

Dwelling on the communist position in Southern Kiangsi, General Yu said that the Reds no longer cause any trouble to the Cantonese troops in the southern front but are engaging the Nanking troops in Eastern Kiangsi. Twelve districts in Southern Kiangsi are recaptured from the Communists, while highways are being built to connect all the towns with the base.

Forts are constructed in every place captured from the Reds, and they are strengthened in order to prevent a counter-attack by the enemy. Reconstruction is going on in those recaptured regions, General Yu added.

DAVIS CUP DONOR OBJECTS

To South Africa's Proposal

London, Aug. 1.

It is reliably learned that South Africa's proposal to hold the Davis Cup biennially, which, it is understood, is supported by English and Australian delegates, was rejected by 12 votes to 11 at a private meeting of the Davis Cup Committee. Mr. Dwight Davis, donor of the trophy, attended and spoke against the resolution.

By a substantial majority the delegates voted against the existing qualifying competition, and a return to "status quo" was decided to ascertain the opinion of the absent countries, which, if they increase the vote, will result in the countries starting on the same footing in 1938.

SPANISH RECONCILIATION WITH VATICAN

Madrid, July 31.

The earlier reports of favourable progress having been made in the negotiations, which the Foreign Minister, Pita Romero is conducting in Rome with the aim of concluding a concordat or establishing a temporary "modus vivendi" in the relations with the Holy See, proved to have been somewhat premature, it now turning out that the negotiations had been miscarried completely, chiefly owing to the fact that the Vatican considers the political situation in Spain far from stable and anticipates the return of the anti-clerical Left Wing of a majority in the Cortes.

In political circles, it is expected that Romero will leave Rome shortly and hand in his resignation as a result of this diplomatic fiasco.

President Alcalá Zamora will probably himself take up the matter of achieving a reconciliation with the Vatican and discuss with the Papal Nuncio the possibilities

CRUISERS AT WHAMPOA

Preparing For Manoeuvres

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, July 31.

The three cruisers at Whampoa, Hai Chi, Hai Shen, Chao Ho are preparing for a manoeuvre sometime next month. The warships will cruise out of the Pearl River for the practice, and leading military and civilian officials will be invited to board the ships during the manoeuvring.

The cruisers came South in May, 1933 to join the South-west regime, leaving the North-eastern squadron at Tsingtao. Nanking at first desired to incorporate them into their units and sent the Japanese built cruiser Ning Hai to chase the three cruisers, which moved up to Whampoa. Then the chase ended, as the Nanking ships did not wish to touch Canton waters.

Since that time, the three cruisers have remained at Whampoa. Officers and ratings are keeping the three warships in trim. Rear-Admiral Y. C. Kiang, commandant of the squadron, is appointed concurrently president of the Whampoa Naval Academy.

THE NEW LIFE MOVEMENT

What It Is Doing In Hankow

Hankow, July 21.

The New Life Movement is continuing its activities here, and the authorities have tried to stop the dancing which has attracted quite a large number of local Chinese to the Metropole garden situated in the S. A. D. No. 2. Besides this amusement, they also have we go, and a merry-go-round, which incidentally has never gone round yet, and tables where light refreshments can be served. On hot nights this place is crowded, and an occasional visit opens one's eyes to the great changes that have come about since 1927. In this direction no doubt all to the good.

Speaking of the New Life Movement, the representatives in Kuling seem to be making themselves a general nuisance, especially where foreigners are concerned. It is unfortunate that something cannot be done to stop this interference, as it is only leading to unpleasantness, and possibly an incident, which will afterwards be regretted. One of the petty things I am told is that in the Gap, it is a rule that persons crossing the street must pass round the policeman. What an absurdity in such a small place? It seems to be a forerunner of what can be expected when the administration is changed.

FOUR DROWNED

Junk Bisected By River Steamer

Shanghai, July 26.

Four Chinese were drowned, and damage estimated at $800 occurred when the N.K.K. as Ssangyang Maru collided with a Tsungming junk, causing four of the crew to be thrown into the water, the junk to be bisected, and the masts broken. The "accident" happened last Thursday at 10.30 a.m. on the Shanghai side of the fairway off the Whangpoo Conservancy Board's workshops, Changwanpang.

According to an eye-witness of the collision the junk was coming up river and was taking at the time. The N.K.K. as Ssangyang Maru suddenly altered its course to the Shanghai side of the river and struck the junk. Five out of nine of the crew were rescued from the junk by the harbour launch. Two of the rescued men complained of injuries and were sent to hospital, and one was found to have broken his jaw. The injuries of the others were only slight.

On board the junk were 120 bundles of grass rope, estimated at $5 a bundle, making a total of $600. There were also a number of Tsungming melons which were estimated at $252.18.

Continuing negotiations on a new basis.

THE SILVER MARKET

History Repeating Itself

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 15.
History is repeating itself in the silver market. Every fresh proposal of silver legislation by the United States Government, has given temporary fillip to the price of the metal, which has subsequently quietly slipped back when the first sentimental effects have worn off.

The latest proposal to establish a 25 per cent. silver backing for United States currency was followed by a sharp rise in the price to 21d. per ounce, but during the past few days the metal has quietly sagged to 20.9-18d. per ounce. Chinese interests have recently been selling heavily while the principal support has come from the United States. American speculators have been keen buyers on any fall in the metal. This, however, has not been sufficient to off-set the heavy selling from other quarters.

There is still a good deal of uncertainty respecting the implications of the new American silver legislation. Mr. Dies, member of the House of Representatives, estimates that the United States Treasury would have to purchase 1,250,000,000 ounces of silver to provide a 25 per cent. silver backing for American currency.

London bullion brokers, however, are treating this report with some reserve as they realise the difficulties attending the purchase of such a large quantity of silver unless it is spread over a long period. The secretary of the United States Treasury moreover has declared that his administration desires a healthy rather than a sensational rise in the price of silver.

The proposed control of United States exports is not expected to have much effect in London. The cessation of exports from the United States would tend to maintain prices on the London market, but it is thought that the American authorities might sell silver in London in order to prevent a rapid rise in the price.

LEAGUE OF DECENCY

Orders to the World

A world crusade to combat immoral films has been launched by the Pope. Roman Catholics throughout the world are urged:-

1. To form local associations to be known as "Leagues of Decency," the main object of which shall be propaganda.
2. To organise protest meetings in direct opposition to films showing in the neighbourhoods which have been voted objectionable.
3. To use the power of boycott. All members of Roman Catholic churches will be instructed before priests to avoid certain films, and to use their full influence to persuade their families, friends, and business associates to do likewise.
4. To publish in the whole of the Catholic Press lists of all films to be banned and attacked by "Leagues of Decency."
5. In extreme cases bishops have been ordered to broadcast plans of attack.

Film producers are to be given no warning. Within twenty-four hours a world campaign against one individual film can be launched. The result will be sensational.

There have been film purity campaigns before. Hollywood magnates are well aware that this one is going to affect them vitally. Studios have offered to co-operate fully with the leagues. They do not want to fight.

Two days ago one of America's greatest film producers, Mr. Joe Schenck, arrived in England with the announcement—"The sex film is dead."

League of Decency are being formed throughout Great Britain day by day. It has been decided that their main object here shall be to co-operate with local watch committees in combating the evil of immoral and anti-social films.

England is too ripe for a Mussolini and not green enough for a Lenin.—Mr. Shane Leslie.

SIAM AVIATION

Rapid Progress And Development

Bangkok, July 25.

Don Muang aerodrome is changing. The aviation service may still be flying on wood, and Imperial Airways may still be using wooden propellers, but if flying men are to be believed Don Muang will shortly be in possession of concrete and asphalt runways such as no aerodrome from London to Singapore yet possesses.

These long distance pilots should know what they are talking about. The Siamese may be excused if they profess no surprise, for it was as long ago as 1919 that the late Sir Ross Smith on his flight to Australia, emphasised that Don Muang was the first aerodrome he and his companions had met with since leaving England.

There are two, built and constructed from the experience collected of the prevailing winds in the south-west monsoon over several years. Six hundred metres long by sixty metres wide they will give pilots landing or taking off a feeling of security.

As one flying man put it recently, a pilot should not be worried when he is about to land with the thought that he may turn over. Even if they are flooded the runways will be safely usable. They are not exactly cheap to construct, but they provide the only all-weather conditions for alighting and taking off.

Courtesy to Visitors

Passengers who regularly use this aerodrome will have noted that thanks to the courtesy of the authorities they are housed much more comfortably for the duration of their brief stay than before. The officers' recreation building, where meals are now served, is very adequately furnished and there has recently been a change made in the catering.

It seems appropriate to add here that the Siamese are doing all that is possible to facilitate the flight of the contestants in the England to Melbourne air race next October. Customs, Immigration, Aviation, Meteorological and Telegraph services are all being laid under contribution to assist the contestants in every way, and although officially only those flying on handicap conditions have to "clock in" at Don Muang, more of the ground staff will be surprised if some of the speed merchants elect after all to follow the by now well beaten train from Rangoon via Don Muang to Alor Star and Singapore in preference to the more dangerous overseas Bay of Bengal passage from India to Singapore.

GERMAN SHARE MARKET

Berlin, July 31.

The sharemarket continued dull buyers exercising a pronounced caution so that the business done was small, the price level being mostly depressed. Fixed interest securities were weaker than before, the mortgage bonds declining about half per cent.

Call Money 4 1/2 to 4 3/4. Young Loan dropped 1 to 89 1/2. Reichsbank declined 2 to 149. Dytrusts slumped 2 1/2 to 148 1/2. Salzfutur Potash unchanged at 161 1/2. German Steel Trusts depressed 1 1/2 to 40 1/2. German Mineral Oils 1 1/2 weaker to 114 1/2. Siemenshalske crashed 3 1/2 to 141 1/2 and Beimbeg Rayon dropped 2 1/2 to 65.

ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY OF MANCHESTER

(Special Air Mail Service)

Edinburgh, July 15.

At a council meeting of the St. Andrew's Society of Manchester yesterday Dr. Daniel Dougal, the president, made a presentation to Mr. James Fortune as a token of appreciation of his services to the society. Mr. Fortune retired last February from the office of honorary secretary which he had held. Dr. Dougal said, with the utmost distinction for thirty-four years. The present consisted of an oil painting of St. Andrew, five by Mr. W. Maxwell Reekie. The picture was the gift of the artist, the members of the council being responsible for the cost of the framing.

Mrs. Newlywed was entertaining. "When did you learn to cook?" asked her visitor. "When my husband was away." "And what did he say when he came back?" This young wife blushed. "He went away again," she replied.
